Spainhower says he will seek nomination

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — State Treasurer James I. Spainhower said today that he will actively seek the Democratic nomination for the U. S. Senate.

When Spainhower first announced his availability for the nomination Saturday, he said he would not actively campaign for it.

But he said today that he's been contacted "by hundreds of persons throughout the state who indicate that I am their first choice as Missouri's next United States senator." Spainhower's active entry into the race sets up a duel between himself and former Gov. Warren Hearnes, the remaining major candidate for the race.

"In the next few days I will personally visit with each member of the state Democratic Committee and share with them my views concerning my electability as their nominee for the Senate seat," said Spainhower, who was nominated last week to seek a second term as treasurer. If he does win the Senate nomination,the committee would have to select his successor to run for the treasurer's post in November.

The Democratic State Committee will meet April 21 in Jefferson City to select the person to succeed Congressman Jerry Litton in the Senate race against Republican Atty. Gen. John Danforth. Litton, his wife and their two children were killed in a fierynplane crash on the night of the Aug. 3 primary as he won the nomination by about 160,000 votes.

Since Litton's death, Congressman James Symington of Ladue, who finished third in the primary behind Litton and Hearnes, has removed his name from contention for the nomination, saying Hearnes as the second-place finisher deserved at least top consideration by the state committee.

Symington's withdrawal was followed by similar actions on the part of retiring 9th District Congressman William Hungate of Troy and Kansas City millionaire Charles Curry. State Auditor George Lehr, intiially mentioned as a possible choice, has expressed no interest in the nomination.

Curry, in taking his name out of the running Wednesday, threw his support behind Spainhower for the nomination.

Queen meets star

Tanya Tucker, right, the star of this year's Sikeston Jaycee Bootheel Rodeo, pauses for a picture with Rodeo queen Susan Wilson of Fredericktown. Tanya: a mature 17

By THOMAS BEARDSLEE

If your impression of a 17-year-old girl finds her giggly, scatterbrained and unsure of herself, you can discard it if you are talking about Tanya Tucker.

Cool, sophisticated and mature, for any age, describes Miss Tucker, the star of this year's Sikeston Jaycee Bootheel Rodeo. Some published reports have expressed surprise at Miss Tucker's sophistication and presence on stage, considering her tender age, but she is the same off the stage.

Tanya has been performing since she was 8 or 9 and got her big break at age 13 when one of her demonstration tapes was heard and liked by a leading song producer.

When asked what type of show she would have for the rodeo audience, she said, "I don't know, I never know. We've done everything from real country shows to real rock and roll shows. It depends on the mood I'm in and the audience I think I have. We do pretty much of everything, and I do a lot of songs that I have recorded."

Backing up Miss Tucker are a four-piece band and three background singers. Her show comes midway through the rodeo program each night through Saturday and the concluding matinee Sunday.

Responding to a question about her education, Tanya said she found it necessary to quit school in the ninth grade because of her travel schedule, but added that she intends to continue her education through correspondence courses.

She also said she is interested in agriculture and raising horses as additional business ventures. She lives on a 200-acre ranch 30 miles from Nashville.

The Jaycee Bootheel Rodeo will be Tanya's third rodeo of the year, having made earlier appearances at the Houstin Astrodome and in Cheyenne, Wyo. She says she likes rodeos and rodeo people.

Food prices drop

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lower food prices held the climb in wholesale prices to a moderate three-tenths of a per cent during July, the government said today, but there was a signal of possible trouble ahead with inflation.

The Labor Department said the July figures mean wholesale prices are rising at an annual rate of 3.6 per cent, after adjustment for seasonal variations. The July increase was in line with increases of four-tenths of a per cent in June and three-tenths of a per cent in May.

The increase left wholesale prices 4.9 per cent ahead of where they were in July 1975, marking the first time in five months that the year-to-year change has been under 5 per cent.

Truck and tools stolen in Sikeston

A van truck, tools and side view mirrors on a church bus were among the items reported stolen in police reports today.

A 1976 van truck, belonging to James Edward Morris of Puxico, was taken from behind the Crown Finance Corp. office, 115 E. Malone Ave., sometime between 10:30 and 11:20 p.m. Wednesday.

Police said a citizens band radio and about $300 worth of clothing were in the van. The value of the radio was not recorded.

A tool box and tools valued at $150 were taken from a pickup truck between 1 p.m. Tuesday and 1 p.m. Wednesday. The truck belongs to Rex Duane Williams, 311 Jackson St., and was parked at his home when the theft occurred.

Two side mirrors valued at $150 were taken from a church bus parked at First Assembly of God Church, 306 S. Kingshighway, sometime between Sunday and Wednesday.

About $50 in change was taken from a soft- drink machine at the Piggly Wiggly grocery store, 209 W. Malone Ave. The machine may have been opened with a key, police said.

A suitcase was taken from a room in the Hester Powell home, 123 N. West St., between 4:30 Wednesday and 12:20 a.m. today. The suitcase was valued at $10.

Briggs says his office will manage small claims court

BENTON — Scot County Magistrate Lloyd G. Briggs said Wednesday that his office will manage the Small Claims Court for Scott County under the new statewide system permitting persons with claims of $500 or less to go to court without a lawyer. The new court goes into effect Friday.

The purpose of the court, Briggs said, is to make it as inexpensive and convenient to the general public as possible to resolve their small claims in court. This is specifically aimed at opening the door to citizens who have been unable for economic reasons to pursue claims, Briggs added.

He pointed out that his role in the court will be to act as an arbitrator between parties since no injuries will will be impaneled. However, appeals may be made into the regular judicial system in an appropriate court of jurisdiction.

Anyone interested in presenting a claim may go to the magistrate clerk's office in the county courthouse, where a clerk will help them with the necessary forms, Briggs said. Forms prepared by the Missouri Supreme Court must be filled out in order to get a case tried.

A fee of $10 will be charged for the cost of handling the claims. Briggs said the Small Claims Court will be handled along with the regular court. However, depending on the case load and the availability of the court room, he added that it may become necessary to set aside an evening or a Saturday for the hearings.

At present, the Magistrate Court only has the use of the court room at the county courthouse on Wednesday of each week.

Briggs said he can foresee the need of a separate court from the Magistrate Court with the adding of the Small Claims Court and the eventual handling of municipal cases.

He said that within the next two years cities of less than 5,000 population will not have municipal judges unless they are lawyers.

New Madrid man hospitalized

3 arrested in shooting, stabbling

NEW MADRID— Three Arkansas men are in custody of the New Madrid County Sheriff's Department and a New Madrid man is hospitalized following a shooting and stabbving incident about midnight Wednesday.

Deputy Sheriff Willis "Bo" Wingo said Phillip Joseph Nelson, 22, of New Madrid was shot once in the buttocks during a fracas outside Otis' Place on Russell Street.

The bullet penetrated into Nelson's upper front thigh and he was taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston. Wingo said Nelson is not believed to be in serious condition.

Being held pending filing of charges are Clarence Bynum, 29, and Calvin Earl Smith, 20, of Turrell, Ark., and Melvin Boyd, 21, of Gilmore, Ark. The men, Wingo said, are levee construction workers.

Witnesses told officers Nelson and Bynum became involved in a fist fight after Nelson allegedly jerked a $5 bill from Bynum's hand. Reportedly, someone handed Nelson an ice pick and Bynum was stabbed once in the head and twice in the leg. Bynum was also cut on the left jaw with a broken bottle.

The Arkansas men left the scene in a truck and when they returned a short time later, someone fired a pistol four or five times. Wingo said Nelson was struck by one of the bullets after his mother spotted the gun and told him to run.

A .25-caliber automatic pistol, believed to be the weapon used, was found about 5:30 a.m. today at Holiway Motel in Howardville.

The investigation by the sheriff's department and police officers Dave Blankenship and John Stephens, is continuing, and charges may be filed against all of the men, Wingo said.

Committees to reorganize

NEW MADRID — The Democratic and the Republican central committees of New Madrid County are to meet Tuesday for reorganization, according to County Clerk Jim W. Farrenburg, following election of members to the committees in the primary elections last week.

Organization of the committees is set out in state laws, with organization meeting dates specificed. Each party has one man and one woman from each township in the county to form the committee, which has the responsibility of managing its party politics and election campaigns.

In the organizational meetings Tuesday, each committee will name a chairman, a vice chairman, a secretary and treasurer.

The Democratic committee will meet at 2 p.m. in the New Madrid County Courthouse. The Republican committee will meet at 7 p.m. at Charles Spitler's law office in New Madrid.

A tabulation of the primary election results showed members were picked in each township for the Democratic Cental Committee, but several townships did not name members for the Republic Committee.

Elected committeemen and committeewomen by the Democratic Party were: Tom Spell and Mary Kay Holiman, Anderson Township; David M. Barton and Mrs. Tommy Kizer, Como Township; Elwood Pickett and Martha Pickett, Hough Township; Sam Pikey and Hazel Pardon, LaFont Township; June C Ransburgh and Lucille House, LeSieur Township; Jimmy Strong and Mary Helen Adams, Lewis Township; Louis Martin and Virginia R. Recker, New Madrid Township; R. L. Saalwaechter and Louise Essary, Portage Township; J. W. Stowe and Mildred Henry, St. John Township; and James H. Cornell and Alma D. Sherrard, West Township.

Named as members of the Republican Committee were: John Reuber, Big Prairie Township; Erwin Lloyd and Georgia Estes, Lewis Township; and Charles Spitler, New Madrid Township.

Vacancies on the Republican Committee will be filled by appointment.

Governor can't make PSC board quit, Ashcroft says

John Ashcroft, Republican candidate for Missouri attorney general, called for a more definite and uniform system of sentencing for convicted criminals during a press conference Wednesday night prior to a GOP fund-raising event at the Holiday Inn.

He also criticized a promise by Democratic gubernatorial candidate Joe Teasdale to call for the resignation of Public Service Commission members. Ashcroft said no governor has that power.

Ashcroft spent 16 months as an assistant attorney general prior to his resignation in April when he filed for the attorney general race. Prior to that he served two years as state auditor as the appointee to fill out the unexpired term when Christopher S. Bond vacated the office to become governor.

He now seeks the office presently held by John Danforth, the Republican nominee for the U.S. Senate seat held by Democrat Stuart Symington, who is retiring.

Citing the public concern over the rising crime rate, Ashcroft said it is time to make sentencing uniform for criminals.

"Currently, if you are convicted of arson in the first degree, you can serve anywhere from two years to infinity," Ashcroft said. He added that 900 various penalties are specified in state law, many of which are vague and indefinite.

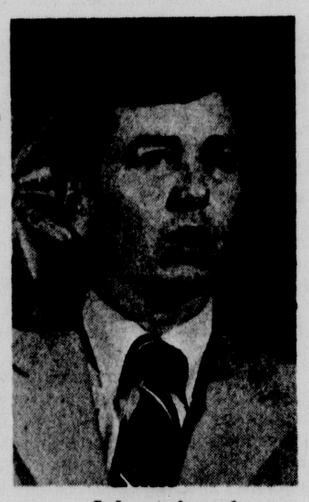

"We need to be more definite and specific about the sentences to be served," he said.

He added that a way must be found to provide for a speedy trial. The average delay between arrest and trial is seven months, he said with many defendants role to extend this time significantly.

Ashcroft called Teasdale's promise to demand the resignation of the PSC members "a fraud."

"I think it is a fraud upon the public to suggest to them (the public) that one could cause the resignation of Public Service Commission members when in fact the law says they shall be appointed for a specified term,"

New Madrid man hospitalized

3 arrested in shooting, stabbling

NEW MADRID— Three Arkansas men are in custody of the New Madrid County Sheriff's Department and a New Madrid man is hospitalized following a shooting and stabbving incident about midnight Wednesday.

Deputy Sheriff Willis "Bo" Wingo said Phillip Joseph Nelson, 22, of New Madrid was shot once in the buttocks during a fracas outside Otis' Place on Russell Street.

The bullet penetrated into Nelson's upper front thigh and he was taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston. Wingo said Nelson is not believed to be in serious condition.

Being held pending filing of charges are Clarence Bynum, 29, and Calvin Earl Smith, 20, of Turrell, Ark., and Melvin Boyd, 21, of Gilmore, Ark. The men, Wingo said, are levee construction workers.

Witnesses told officers Nelson and Bynum became involved in a fist fight after Nelson allegedly jerked a $5 bill from Bynum's hand. Reportedly, someone handed Nelson an ice pick and Bynum was stabbed once in the head and twice in the leg. Bynum was also cut on the left jaw with a broken bottle.

The Arkansas men left the scene in a truck and when they returned a short time later, someone fired a pistol four or five times. Wingo said Nelson was struck by one of the bullets after his mother spotted the gun and told him to run.

A .25-caliber automatic pistol, believed to be the weapon used, was found about 5:30 a.m. today at Holiway Motel in Howardville.

The investigation by the sheriff's department and police officers Dave Blankenship and John Stephens, is continuing, and charges may be filed against all of the men, Wingo said.

Committees to reorganize

NEW MADRID — The Democratic and the Republican central committees of New Madrid County are to meet Tuesday for reorganization, according to County Clerk Jim W. Farrenburg, following election of members to the committees in the primary elections last week.

Organization of the committees is set out in state laws, with organization meeting dates specificed. Each party has one man and one woman from each township in the county to form the committee, which has the responsibility of managing its party politics and election campaigns.

In the organizational meetings Tuesday, each committee will name a chairman, a vice chairman, a secretary and treasurer.

The Democratic committee will meet at 2 p.m. in the New Madrid County Courthouse. The Republican committee will meet at 7 p.m. at Charles Spitler's law office in New Madrid.

A tabulation of the primary election results showed members were picked in each township for the Democratic Cental Committee, but several townships did not name members for the Republic Committee.

Elected committeemen and committeewomen by the Democratic Party were: Tom Spell and Mary Kay Holiman, Anderson Township; David M. Barton and Mrs. Tommy Kizer, Como Township; Elwood Pickett and Martha Pickett, Hough Township; Sam Pikey and Hazel Pardon, LaFont Township; June C Ransburgh and Lucille House, LeSieur Township; Jimmy Strong and Mary Helen Adams, Lewis Township; Louis Martin and Virginia R. Recker, New Madrid Township; R. L. Saalwaechter and Louise Essary, Portage Township; J. W. Stowe and Mildred Henry, St. John Township; and James H. Cornell and Alma D. Sherrard, West Township.

Named as members of the Republican Committee were: John Reuber, Big Prairie Township; Erwin Lloyd and Georgia Estes, Lewis Township; and Charles Spitler, New Madrid Township.

Vacancies on the Republican Committee will be filled by appointment.

Governor can't make PSC board quit, Ashcroft says

John Ashcroft, Republican candidate for Missouri attorney general, called for a more definite and uniform system of sentencing for convicted criminals during a press conference Wednesday night prior to a GOP fund-raising event at the Holiday Inn.

He also criticized a promise by Democratic gubernatorial candidate Joe Teasdale to call for the resignation of Public Service Commission members. Ashcroft said no governor has that power.

Ashcroft spent 16 months as an assistant attorney general prior to his resignation in April when he filed for the attorney general race. Prior to that he served two years as state auditor as the appointee to fill out the unexpired term when Christopher S. Bond vacated the office to become governor.

He now seeks the office presently held by John Danforth, the Republican nominee for the U.S. Senate seat held by Democrat Stuart Symington, who is retiring.

Citing the public concern over the rising crime rate, Ashcroft said it is time to make sentencing uniform for criminals.

"Currently, if you are convicted of arson in the first degree, you can serve anywhere from two years to infinity," Ashcroft said. He added that 900 various penalties are specified in state law, many of which are vague and indefinite.

"We need to be more definite and specific about the sentences to be served," he said.

He added that a way must be found to provide for a speedy trial. The average delay between arrest and trial is seven months, he said with many defendants role to extend this time significantly.

Ashcroft called Teasdale's promise to demand the resignation of the PSC members "a fraud."

"I think it is a fraud upon the public to suggest to them (the public) that one could cause the resignation of Public Service Commission members when in fact the law says they shall be appointed for a specified term,"

HOW WOULD JIMMY CARTER GOVERN?

There is a better than even chance, say pollsters, that the next President of the United States will be a peanut farmer from Plains, Georgia. Given that possibility, the question of how Jimmy Carter would govern America becomes all- important.

His administration, of course, could be expected to enjoy better relations with Capitol Hill than has been the case under Presidents Nixon and Ford.Both Houses of Congress are heavily controlled by Democrats, and there is scant likelihood that that will change with the November elections. But how would he actually wield the considerable power that would thus reside at the White House to shape the nation's future?

A Carter presidency, for one thing, almost surely would be a very activist one. The latest Business Week magazine says Carter as President would develop "a set of programs for the nation that could put the U.S. economy and society on the road to the most fundamental changes in decades." High on Carter's agenda, according to aides, would be: overhaul of the U.S. tax system, closing off various shelters and deductions; a massive reorganization of the federal bureaucracy, introduction of a national health insurance program, federal - state takeover of municipal welfare costs, and a wide - ranging program, including federal jobs, to reduce unemployment.

As to style, Dr. David G. Winter, a noted psychologist, claims that a politician's statements can be analyzed to determine his need for power, for achievement, and for affiliation (the last being "an expression of his desire to associate with people") Writing in Psychology Today magazine, Winter reports that Carter "scores average or above on all three motives, but his need for achievement outstips his needs for both affiliation and power. Because of this particular pattern of motives, Carter is likely to govern in the style of Lyndon B. Johnson."

To his credit, one thing that Carter would take to the White House would be a power of moral suasion that LBJ lacked. The profane Texan had simply been in too many smoke- filled rooms and been party to too many political deals to rally the nation by the power of his example.

Carter's religious faith seems deep and genuine. Although his liberal brand of politics should give pause to many Americans, on a moral plane it is difficult to fault him.

FREE MEDICAL ADVICE

WASHINGTON— If you ask Americans what bugs them the most besides death and taxes, they will usually answer, "the high cost of medical care." It has become the major domestic issue in the country, and almost everyone you talk to is furious about it.

I say almost because my friend Hopewell claims he has solved he problem, "The reason people are paying so much for medical care is that we are not making use of all the trained people in our own families who have as much experience as any doctor."

I looked perplexed.

"In my family we have specialists in every division of medicine, and they make house calls even when you don't want them to."

"I still don't understand."

"Last Sunday my Aunt Hilda and Uncle George stopped by the house on their way to visit some friends. Uncle George had a heart attack about two years ago so he considers himself in a class with Dr. De Bakey. I was complaining about slow circulation in my tennis arm. Without even examining me he said, 'I'd recommend a bypass operation.'

"Aunt Hilda said, 'Either that or open-heart surgery. My nephew by marriage had open-heart surgery last year and he's doing very well. Let them implant a pacemaker and you'll feel like a new man.'

"But Uncle George was adamant. 'Bypass is better. I wouldn't be here today if it wasn't for my bypass.'

"Maybe I should have a third consultation with a doctor?" I suggested.

" 'Go ahead,' " said Uncle George, 'if you want to waste your money. But he'll only tell you the same thing.' "

I told Hopewell, "You saved yourself a $50 visit to as cardiologist."

"Exactly. My mother, on the other hand, is a regular faith healer. She calls me up on the phone and she can tell just from the sound of my voice whrn something is wrong. 'What is it, son?" she'll ask.

"I'm very depressed," I'll tell her. "Becky just smashed in the front end of my car.

" 'It isn't Becky who made you depressed. You're suffering from male menopause.'

"How do you know?" I'll ask her. " 'Your father was the same age when he got depressed. The thing to do is just get through the day. I'll call you tomorrow and we'll talk about it some more.' "

"Anybody else would have had to lay out a bundle to a psychiatrist," I told him.

Hopewell agreed. "I have a brother-in-law who has back problems. He goes to a doctor. But if anybody else in the family has back problems we call him. One of my sisters-in-law apecializes in sinus problems. All you have to do is hint you have a problem and she'll not only prescribe the medicine but she'll deliver it within the hour.

"My sister went to Mexico last year so she knows everything about intestinal illnesses, and I have a cousin Freddy who always watches Marcus Welby on television and can look at anybody in the family and know immediately if he or she is suffering from a vitamin deficiency.

"I had a kidney stone last summer," Howpewell said, "so if anyone is having kidney problems they call me.

"My wife knows all about high blood pressure and my aunt Phoebe deals mostly with female disorders."

"You've got a Johns Hopkins Medical School right in your own family," I told Hopewell.

"Every family does. The trick is when you go to the doctor ask a lot of questions, and then file away the information so you can help all your relatives. You can't imagine how much money you can save in medical bills. I have a brother who goes to a psychiatrist once a week. A month ago I called him up an told him about a dream I had in which I was stuck in a cave and taxis kept going by, but not one would stop for me. He told the shrink the dream as if it was his own, and then called me up the following day and said, 'You forgot to pay your telephone bill.' I saved $40 on one lousy dream. With a family like mine, who needs Medicare?"

WANTS AND DEMANDS

"Too often in recent years we've confused human need with human want. Human needs can be fulfilled—and government has a positive role in trying to meet them. But human wants are insatiable and any government, no matter how well intentioned, that tries to keep up with them—or promises to fulfill them—is doomed to failure and financial collapse."

Security comes in many different forms and most of them are desirable. There is an odd thing about security, though. It is the product of risk—yet risk is the opposite of security. In searching for security, don't go to the people who are looking for the same thing. Go to those who are risk-takers, not security-seekers. To start every business, some man had to put his resources on the line—his ideas, energy, lots of time, and his money, probably down to the last cent. There is never a "sure thing."

THE RAPE OF THE CENTURY.....

There are, we feel sure, many fine conscientious union workers. This editorial is not directed toward them, but toward their counterparts, the sloppy worker that has no pride in his product and no conscience as to how much he is costing his fellowman for the careless way he does his job. The high priced union welders working on the Alaskan pipeline have been doing some shoddy welding and the inspectors walking the line and x-raying the mistakes are not even reporting the bad welds. These careless mistakes and falsified reports are going to cost the American consumer millions of dollars in losses and repairs when the lines break or leak. It should be a criminal offense to let these mistakes get by without prompt corrections. Even if it were a criminal offense there probably wouldn't be any punishments. Those careless and unconcerned union workers are stealing from you and me for we are the consumers who eventually must pay the bill. We have been told that only in America could such a huge pipeline be constructed. Now we are being told that only in America can the public be taken for so much by the Union. The Alaskan pipeline can now be called the rape of the century.

FEMALE OF THE SPECIES

A CURIOUS phenomenon of the zoo is the public reaction to primates. Something about these near-relatives of our stimulates a special hostility in many people, who seem to take their existence as a personal insult. Children feel this reaction in their elders and are quick to adopt it as their own. A zoologist told me that one day at New York's Bronx Zoo she came upon two small boys, shouting and whooping at a gorilla that was quite inoffensively sitting in its moated enclosure. They were yelling insults, she said, and putting up their fists and shouting: "Want to fight?"

"That's a girl gorilla, you know," she told the boys. They looked shocked and remorseful and quieted down immediately, soon tiptoeing away.

THE GREATEST THREAT

"The greatest threat to a democratic government," warns prominent American businessman Donald A. Gaudion, "is not the possibility of its politicians and officials acting improperly or incompetently, but the danger of its citizens not acting at all."

If you are one who shrugs off politics as inconsequential to the serious business of daily living, think again. In the words of Mr. Gaudion, "Politics doesn't stop the day after an election. Politics is a 24-hour, 7-day-a-week, 52-week-a-year process. It never stops affecting your business. You can't afford to participate only when there is a crisis or when you seem to have the time. You've got to make time." Your involvement in the political process is a decisive factor in congressional decisions affecting your career and family. Without citizen input, there can be no legislation that truly reflects the will of the people.

There are many ways to participate, from keeping up on legislative happenings and conveying your opinions to the lawmakers to supporting the candidates or party of your choice. Remember, political participation is a unique American privilege and responsibility. Alone we cannot change the world, but when each of us becomes involved, our representative system of government can broadcast the message of freedom to all. That is what makes life worth living in these United States.

WORTH IT

Editors these days have a lot on their minds, like how to meet the paper bill, pay the pressman and get enough advertising to keep the wolf away from the door. Sometimes it all seems like a thankless task. But then someone comes along with an encouraging word about the free press being "the voice of the public conscience" or "the watchdog of freedom" and the like. There's really more than a grain of truth in such words.

Napoleon Bonaparte is quoted as having said, "A journalist is a grumbler, a censurer, a giver of advice, a regent of sovereigns, a tutor of nations. Four hostile newspapers are more to be feared than a thousand bayonets."

Tyrants and other such criminals in and out of public office have always feared a free press. It's worth sticking around just to insure that they always do.

ILLUSORY PIPE DREAM

With high fuel prices, inflated construction costs, soaring interest rates and scarcity of investment funds for new construction, the nation's utility companies--investor-owned as well as government-owned--have had to sharply increase the rates they charge for service. Quite predictably, there have been those waiting in the wings ready to haul out the old cliches of forty years ago that were used to promote socialism in the power business.

Proposals for city and state takeovers of private electric company generation and transmission facilities have popped up in many parts of the country. In New England and the states of Virginia, New Jersey, Oregon and California, proponents claim there would be substantial savings of operating costs under government ownership of utility systems which would help keep rates down. Those savings, if you want to call them that, involve the right which publicly-owned utilities would have to issue tax-free bonds and avoid paying stockholder dividends and such bothersome things as federal income taxes, state taxes and local property taxes. There is also that business about government ownership by state or municipal power agencies resulting in management more responsive to the people's needs. That sounds like something right out of Karl Marx's blueprint for communism.

Public ownership promoters do not mention that communities buying out electric company properties will lose one of their biggest property taxpayers. Those taxes will have to be made up from other sources--electric bills might be lower for a time but taxes would have to be higher to make up for it. There are mighty few cities or states for that matter in the country with the resources to take over hundreds of millions of dollars of utility company property without seeking massive increased taxes or huge bond issues or both.

Aside from taxes, fuel costs are one of the major items of utility overhead, and a government power system cannot buy fuel oil, coal or nuclear technology any cheaper than an investor-owned electric company. The days of cheap power are over, and public ownership cannot bring them back. To think otherwise can only be described as succumbing to a 24 carat pipe dream that can prove to be nothing but tragically disappointing.

Taxes could be much worse. Suppose we had to pay on what we think we're worth.

XXX

SAME OLD HABIT

If you think kicking about the extravagant spending habits of the federal bureaucracy is a new thing for the American people you're wrong. An example of early concern with Uncle Sam's expensive tastes can be found in a journal written by an emigrant crossing the plains in 1843. He writes, "In the year 1843, Fremont, then a Lieutenant in the Engineer Corps, did cross the plains....His outfit contained all of the conveniences and luxuries that a Government appropriation could procure, while he 'roughed it' in a covered carriage, surrounded by servants paid from the public purse. He returned to the States and was afterward rewarded with a Presidential nomination as the 'Pathfinder.' The path he found was made by the hardy frontiersmen who preceded him to the Pacific...."

And there you have it. Citizen disgust with the spending habits of federal government was about the same 131 years ago as it is today. The only difference is there are more taxpayers, a vastly larger bureaucracy and certainly there is much more money to spend. Judging by inflation, Uncle Sam may yet have to change his extravagant habits.

BEWARE VOTERS!

The true essence of political promises was captured in the following gem from the "Standard" of Fairfax, Minnesota. "A congressman went to an Indian reservation in Arizona," according to the story, "and made the following speech before about 500 Indians: 'My good friends, I'll see to it that the government helps you.' 'Oom galla galla,' shouted the Indians. 'I'll work to get better housing for you,' the congressman went on....'I'll see to it that you receive relief and annual federal grants.' 'Oom galla galla,' shouted the Indians.

"After his speech was over, he stood around chatting with the Indians about their problems. Suddenly he noticed in a meadow not far from the platform, some very nice looking prize bulls. 'Aren't they spectacular animals,' he exclaimed. 'May I walk over and have a closer look?' 'OK,' said the chief, "but be careful you don't step in the oom galla galla.' "

As the 1976 elections draw nearer, American voters must be wary, for there will doubltess be no shortage of campaign "oom galla galla" to wade through!

WORKERS CALLED VICTIMS OF FEDERAL OVER-SPENDING

The working middle class has more at stake than any other group in curbing government excesses and "should start demanding a better deal," Richard C. Kautz, chairman of the National Association of Manufacturers, and chairman, Grain Processing Corp., said recently.

"The average American, above all, should get mad at Washington's treatment of Him—and do something about it," Mr. Kautz said.

Americans are showing their distaste for government excesses already by not turning out to vote, he observed, adding that, in 1974, only one out of every three voting-age citizens went to the polls.

"We must show people that faith can be restored, that change can be effected, that voting can make a difference," he urged.

"It is the productive worker," Mr. Kautz insisted, "who pays the bulk of taxes and who, in effect, pays the lion's share for programs that support the nonproductive. It is he who is the consuming public and who creates markets for the outpourings of our society products—and when government overregulation and excessive taxes inflate the cost of products, he foots the bill."

The NAM chairman pointed out that "today's government policies are tipped in favor of the non-producers through income-maintenance programs that skyrocket in costs as they grow in number"—from 200 in the early 1960s to 1,100 today. He said that "10 years ago, spending for health, education and welfare programs was about $35 billion. For fiscal 1977, the President has budgeted almost $192 billion for the whole gamut of social welfare programs."

The public pays for government failures, Mr. Kautz charged. For example, he continued, federal tax receipts for this year represent a contribution for each American household of $4,150—"double the tax in 1968 and four times that of 1956."

The NAM chairman called upon management to urge employes and the public in general to participate more fully in the political process—to insure that the public will is indeed served. He said that employe support of private enterprise principles "is essential to a secure and prosperous future."

"We need far more effective content in communicating on public issues if the media, public and government officials are to get a better grasp of industry's functions, operations, benefits, and our absolute essentiality to progress and the solution of America's problems," he stressed.

"The great American jury must rule that special interests stop demanding that government step in every time a new problem arises—that people start demanding instead balanced budgets, regulatory moderation, and a tax policy that encourages initiative, investment and expansion."

SOMETHING WE DON'T NEED

Too much congressional attention continues to be directed toward nonproductive lines of action and investigation. One such line of inquiry pursued by the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly Subcommittee has been aimed at seeking evidence to support a proposed restructuring of the telephone industry in the United States. The idea would be to break up segments of the industry in favor of increased competition.

It is a poor time to direct all of this attention toward an industry that has turned in an exceptional record of service. After all, it has built a universally-available telecommunications system, with fingertip accessibility to all the American people to use at minimum cost. Quite frankly, if more segments of local, state and federal governments had operated even with a modicum of the efficiency and foresight shown by the nation's telephone industry, the country would not be in the nest of troubles which now plague it.

A leading business executive, not associated with the telephone industry or with the Bell System, has expressed his views in testimony before the Senate subcommittee. It was his belief that any steps to inject competition into the now publicly-regulated telephone business should be undertaken "...only after finding that competition will result in a better telecommunications system, not merely a more segmented one." For instance, disrupting the Bell System by divesting it of its equipment supplier would, he said, simply reduce the company's income and "...adversely affect its ability to raise capital during this critical period. Such action would ultimately mean higher rates and less progressive developments for consumers and would not, therefore, serve the public interest." He also noted that such action would threaten the income of more than 3 million stockholders, as well as pension funds and millions of other people depending in part for their livelihood on dividends resulting from their stock ownership in American Telephone & Telegraph Company.

Our elected representatives should be devoting their attention to practically anything except further disruption of basic industry and the U.S. business system. Raising Cain with the modern telecommunications industry in the United States would be like taking a sledgehammer to a fine Swiss watch that had been keeping good time for 100 years.

Predicts Massive, vilolent Black racial strife – Unless

Victor Riesel's guest columnist today is one of the nation's most influential black leaders. His organization rarely breaks into the news. But its impact is felt in hundreds of communities which are uptight and restless in the country's "central cities."

By LEON H. SULLIVAN
Minister, Zion Baptist Church

PHILADELPHIA -- Although this seems a time of economic recovery and more tranquility in our cities than in recent years, beneath the surface there is a seething volcano which will erupt one day and tear this country apart if we do not begin to do something on a significant scale about worsening problems in our urban communities.

While there have been benefits from the civil rights movement, the broader results still have not reached the great masses of blacks and other colored minorities in America. In fact, many are in as bad shape now as they ever were before. Conditions in our cities have actually gotten worse.

Most white Americans have no comprehension of the magnitude of inner city problems. They are massive; and most disheartening of all, there is little effort to improve conditions. Not a single program of national scope is being attempted to deal with deteriorating conditions of housing, unemployment, deprivation and hopelessness in the nation's concentrated communities.

Indeed, the prospect is that, within five years at most, unless the deterioration of our urban areas is reversed and the people given new hope, the nation will be caught once again in a wave of racial strife, ethnic division and riotous bedlam, the likes of which we have never witnessed before.

The situation has already gotten beyond any one part of the nation's capability to deal with in an effective way. The federal government by itself cannot sufficiently handle the situation, and money alone cannot solve the problem.

Need in America today is a combination of resources: capital, physical, human and spiritual, in a crusade of national rejuvenation, leading to the assurances of equal housing opportunities, assurances of equal job opportunities, assurances of the elimination of employment barriers in industries and unions, plus a national concentration on lifting the skills and productive capacities of the unemployed and underemployed among our nation's poor.

There is need for massive self-help rehabilitation, job creation and skill training efforts in our cities. Into these money from the government, resources from industry, cooperation from the community and the self-development of the people are all combined. It's a great national effort to provide every American, of every race and color, an equal chance at the starting line for jobs and opportunities.

In this respect a proposal calling for a nationwide job creation and skill training program to employ one million unemployed Americans is before the Congress now, which could become a beginning in bringing this about. The act requests support for self-help type programs like the OIC, the Opportunities Industrialization Centers of America.

It was begun in Philadelphia 13 years ago, in an old abandoned jailhouse, to help the unemployed and the underemployed improve their conditions, and it has since trained and placed 250,000 people in jobs and has operating or is developing centers in more than 200 urban and rural communities across the nation.

Because of the self-help nature of the program, the OIC trains a person for less than one-third the cost of the traditional government-type programs, with more than an 85 per cent retention of trainees placed on jobs. The rate on federal investment in OIC centers has already been returned 20 to 1, with an economic benefit to the country amounting to billions of dollars in new wages, new taxes and tax savings on relief checks.

In addition to OIC, this skills-training and job-creation bill provides for the broad and intensive participation of other community-based organizations like the Urban League, Plans for Progress, union organizations and others of demonstrated effectiveness in the comprehensive employment and job development field.

The bill was introduced in the Senate by Richard Schweiker and is already co-signed by more than 30 Senators of every political persuasion and from all geographical sections. A companion bill has been sponsored in the House by Congressman Perkins of Kentucky, chairman of the House Labor Committee, already with scores of co-signers.

According to one supporting Senator, this legislation, which many thought would not go very far, could become the rock in the water to create waves that could begin to make a difference in reaching the untrained and unemployed in America. While the debate on full employment is going on, the country sorely needs something practical like this to happen now, to give poor people some hope.

The OIC is multi-racial in composition and has been broadly endorsed by governors and mayors from across America. OIC has also built community-owned shopping centers, housing complexes and community-owned factories in its job-creation process.

The problems of the inner cities will only be solved by massive proliferation of this kind of self-help effort with the working together of government, industry, labor, community-based groups, and most of all, the people in the communities themselves, motivated by self-development.

Of this we can be sure: something like the OIC self-help thrust, and that of other community-based organizations, had better be widely attempted soon, and they had better succeed, or one day that volcano beneath us is going to blow up.

"I still don't understand."

"Last Sunday my Aunt Hilda and Uncle George stopped by the house on their way to visit some friends. Uncle George had a heart attack about two years ago so he considers himself in a class with Dr. De Bakey. I was complaining about slow circulation in my tennis arm. Without even examining me he said, 'I'd recommend a bypass operation.'

"Aunt Hilda said, 'Either that or open-heart surgery. My nephew by marriage had open-heart surgery last year and he's doing very well. Let them implant a pacemaker and you'll feel like a new man.'

"But Uncle George was adamant. 'Bypass is better. I wouldn't be here today if it wasn't for my bypass.'

"Maybe I should have a third consultation with a doctor?" I suggested.

" 'Go ahead,' " said Uncle George, 'if you want to waste your money. But he'll only tell you the same thing.' "

I told Hopewell, "You saved yourself a $50 visit to as cardiologist."

"Exactly. My mother, on the other hand, is a regular faith healer. She calls me up on the phone and she can tell just from the sound of my voice whrn something is wrong. 'What is it, son?" she'll ask.

"I'm very depressed," I'll tell her. "Becky just smashed in the front end of my car.

" 'It isn't Becky who made you depressed. You're suffering from male menopause.'

"How do you know?" I'll ask her. " 'Your father was the same age when he got depressed. The thing to do is just get through the day. I'll call you tomorrow and we'll talk about it some more.' "

"Anybody else would have had to lay out a bundle to a psychiatrist," I told him.

Hopewell agreed. "I have a brother-in-law who has back problems. He goes to a doctor. But if anybody else in the family has back problems we call him. One of my sisters-in-law apecializes in sinus problems. All you have to do is hint you have a problem and she'll not only prescribe the medicine but she'll deliver it within the hour.

"My sister went to Mexico last year so she knows everything about intestinal illnesses, and I have a cousin Freddy who always watches Marcus Welby on television and can look at anybody in the family and know immediately if he or she is suffering from a vitamin deficiency.

"I had a kidney stone last summer," Howpewell said, "so if anyone is having kidney problems they call me.

"My wife knows all about high blood pressure and my aunt Phoebe deals mostly with female disorders."

"You've got a Johns Hopkins Medical School right inyour own family," I told Hopewell.

"Every family does. The trick is when you go to the doctor ask a lot of questions, and then file away the information so you can help all your relatives. You can't imagine how much money you can save in medical bills. I have a brother who goes to a psychiatrist once a week. A month ago I called him up an told him about a dream I had in which I was stuck in a cave and taxis kept going by, but not one would stop for me. He told the shrink the dream as if it was his own, and then called me up the following day and said, 'You forgot to pay your telephone bill.' I saved $40 on one lousy dream. With a family like mine, who needs Medicare?"

WANTS AND DEMANDS

"Too often in recent years we've confused human need with human want. Human needs can be fulfilled—and government has a positive role in trying to meet them. But human wants are insatiable and any government, no matter how well intentioned, that tries to keep up with them—or promises to fulfill them—is doomed to failure and financial collapse."

Security comes in many different forms and most of them are desirable. There is an odd thing about security, though. It is the product of risk—yet risk is the opposite of security. In searching for security, don't go to the people who are looking for the same thing. Go to those who are risk-takers, not security-seekers. To start every business, some man had to put his resources on the line—his ideas, energy, lots of time, and his money, probably down to the last cent. There is never a "sure thing."

THE RAPE OF THE CENTURY.....

There are, we feel sure, many fine conscientious union workers. This editorial is not directed toward them, but toward their counterparts, the sloppy worker that has no pride in his product and no conscience as to how much he is costing his fellowman for the careless way he does his job. The high priced union welders working on the Alaskan pipeline have been doing some shoddy welding and the inspectors walking the line and x-raying the mistakes are not even reporting the bad welds. These careless mistakes and falsified reports are going to cost the American consumer millions of dollars in losses and repairs when the lines break or leak. It should be a criminal offense to let these mistakes get by without prompt corrections. Even if it were a criminal offense there probably wouldn't be any punishments. Those careless and unconcerned union workers are stealing from you and me for we are the consumers who eventually must pay the bill. We have been told that only in America could such a huge pipeline be constructed. Now we are being told that only in America can the public be taken for so much by the Union. The Alaskan pipeline can now be called the rape of the century.

FEMALE OF THE SPECIES

A CURIOUS phenomenon of the zoo is the public reaction to primates. Something about these near-relatives of our stimulates a special hostility in many people, who seem to take their existence as a personal insult. Children feel this reaction in their elders and are quick to adopt it as their own. A zoologist told me that one day at New York's Bronx Zoo she came upon two small boys, shouting and whooping at a gorilla that was quite inoffensively sitting in its moated enclosure. They were yelling insults, she said, and putting up their fists and shouting: "Want to fight?"

"That's a girl gorilla, you know," she told the boys. They looked shocked and remorseful and quieted down immediately, soon tiptoeing away.

THE GREATEST THREAT

"The greatest threat to a democratic government," warns prominent American businessman Donald A. Gaudion, "is not the possibility of its politicians and officials acting improperly or incompetently, but the danger of its citizens not acting at all."

If you are one who shrugs off politics as inconsequential to the serious business of daily living, think again. In the words of Mr. Gaudion, "Politics doesn't stop the day after an election. Politics is a 24-hour, 7-day-a-week, 52-week-a-year process. It never stops affecting your business. You can't afford to participate only when there is a crisis or when you seem to have the time. You've got to make time." Your involvement in the political process is a decisive factor in congressional decisions affecting your career and family. Without citizen input, there can be no legislation that truly reflects the will of the people.

There are many ways to participate, from keeping up on legislative happenings and conveying your opinions to the lawmakers to supporting the candidates or party of your choice. Remember, political participation is a unique American privilege and responsibility. Alone we cannot change the world, but when each of us becomes involved, our representative system of government can broadcast the message of freedom to all. That is what makes life worth living in these United States.

XXX

WORTH IT

Editors these days have a lot on their minds, like how to meet the paper bill, pay the pressman and get enough advertising to keep the wolf away from the door. Sometimes it all seems like a thankless task. But then someone comes along with an encouraging word about the free press being "the voice of the public conscience" or "the watchdog of freedom" and the like. There's really more than a grain of truth in such words.

Napoleon Bonaparte is quoted as having said, "A journalist is a grumbler, a censurer, a giver of advice, a regent of sovereigns, a tutor of nations. Four hostile newspapers are more to be feared than a thousand bayonets."

Tyrants and other such criminals in and out of public office have always feared a free press. It's worth sticking around just to insure that they always do.

ILLUSORY PIPE DREAM

With high fuel prices, inflated construction costs, soaring interest rates and scarcity of investment funds for new construction, the nation's utility companies--investor-owned as well as government-owned--have had to sharply increase the rates they charge for service. Quite predictably, there have been those waiting in the wings ready to haul out the old cliches of forty years ago that were used to promote socialism in the power business.

Proposals for city and state takeovers of private electric company generation and transmission facilities have popped up in many parts of the country. In New England and the states of Virginia, New Jersey, Oregon and California, proponents claim there would be substantial savings of operating costs under government ownership of utility systems which would help keep rates down. Those savings, if you want to call them that, involve the right which publicly-owned utilities would have to issue tax-free bonds and avoid paying stockholder dividends and such bothersome things as federal income taxes, state taxes and local property taxes. There is also that business about government ownership by state or municipal power agencies resulting in management more responsive to the people's needs. That sounds like something right out of Karl Marx's blueprint for communism.

Public ownership promoters do not mention that communities buying out electric company properties will lose one of their biggest property taxpayers. Those taxes will have to be made up from other sources--electric bills might be lower for a time but taxes would have to be higher to make up for it. There are mighty few cities or states for that matter in the country with the resources to take over hundreds of millions of dollars of utility company property without seeking massive increased taxes or huge bond issues or both.

Aside from taxes, fuel costs are one of the major items of utility overhead, and a government power system cannot buy fuel oil, coal or nuclear technology any cheaper than an investor-owned electric company. The days of cheap power are over, and public ownership cannot bring them back. To think otherwise can only be described as succumbing to a 24 carat pipe dream that can prove to be nothing but tragically disappointing.

XXX

Taxes could be much worse. Suppose we had to pay on what we think we're worth.

XXX

SAME OLD HABIT

If you think kicking about the extravagant spending habits of the federal bureaucracy is a new thing for the American people you're wrong. An example of early concern with Uncle Sam's expensive tastes can be found in a journal written by an emigrant crossing the plains in 1843. He writes, "In the year 1843, Fremont, then a Lieutenant in the Engineer Corps, did cross the plains....His outfit contained all of the conveniences and luxuries that a Government appropriation could procure, while he 'roughed it' in a covered carriage, surrounded by servants paid from the public purse. He returned to the States and was afterward rewarded with a Presidential nomination as the 'Pathfinder.' The path he found was made by the hardy frontiersmen who preceded him to the Pacific...."

And there you have it. Citizen disgust with the spending habits of federal government was about the same 131 years ago as it is today. The only difference is there are more taxpayers, a vastly larger bureaucracy and certainly there is much more money to spend. Judging by inflation, Uncle Sam may yet have to change his extravagant habits.

BEWARE VOTERS!

The true essence of political promises was captured in the following gem from the "Standard" of Fairfax, Minnesota. "A congressman went to an Indian reservation in Arizona," according to the story, "and made the following speech before about 500 Indians: 'My good friends, I'll see to it that the government helps you.' 'Oom galla galla,' shouted the Indians. 'I'll work to get better housing for you,' the congressman went on....'I'll see to it that you receive relief and annual federal grants.' 'Oom galla galla,' shouted the Indians.

"After his speech was over, he stood around chatting with the Indians about their problems. Suddenly he noticed in a meadow not far from the platform, some very nice looking prize bulls. 'Aren't they spectacular animals,' he exclaimed. 'May I walk over and have a closer look?' 'OK,' said the chief, "but be careful you don't step in the oom galla galla.' "

As the 1976 elections draw nearer, American voters must be wary, for there will doubltess be no shortage of campaign "oom galla galla" to wade through!

WORKERS CALLED VICTIMS OF FEDERAL OVER-SPENDING

The working middle class has more at stake than any other group in curbing government excesses and "should start demanding a better deal," Richard C. Kautz, chairman of the National Association of Manufacturers, and chairman, Grain Processing Corp., said recently.

"The average American, above all, should get mad at Washington's treatment of Him—and do something about it," Mr. Kautz said.

Americans are showing their distaste for government excesses already by not turning out to vote, he observed, adding that, in 1974, only one out of every three voting-age citizens went to the polls.

"We must show people that faith can be restored, that change can be effected, that voting can make a difference," he urged.

"It is the productive worker," Mr. Kautz insisted, "who pays the bulk of taxes and who, in effect, pays the lion's share for programs that support the nonproductive. It is he who is the consuming public and who creates markets for the outpourings of our society products—and when government overregulation and excessive taxes inflate the cost of products, he foots the bill."

The NAM chairman pointed out that "today's government policies are tipped in favor of the non-producers through income-maintenance programs that skyrocket in costs as they grow in number"—from 200 in the early 1960s to 1,100 today. He said that "10 years ago, spending for health, education and welfare programs was about $35 billion. For fiscal 1977, the President has budgeted almost $192 billion for the whole gamut of social welfare programs."

The public pays for government failures, Mr. Kautz charged. For example, he continued, federal tax receipts for this year represent a contribution for each American household of $4,150—"double the tax in 1968 and four times that of 1956."

The NAM chairman called upon management to urge employes and the public in general to participate more fully in the political process—to insure that the public will is indeed served. He said that employe support of private enterprise principles "is essential to a secure and prosperous future."

"We need far more effective content in communicating on public issues if the media, public and government officials are to get a better grasp of industry's functions, operations, benefits, and our absolute essentiality to progress and the solution of America's problems," he stressed.

"The great American jury must rule that special interests stop demanding that government step in every time a new problem arises—that people start demanding instead balanced budgets, regulatory moderation, and a tax policy that encourages initiative, investment and expansion."

SOMETHING WE DON'T NEED

Too much congressional attention continues to be directed toward nonproductive lines of action and investigation. One such line of inquiry pursued by the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly Subcommittee has been aimed at seeking evidence to support a proposed restructuring of the telephone industry in the United States. The idea would be to break up segments of the industry in favor of increased competition.

It is a poor time to direct all of this attention toward an industry that has turned in an exceptional record of service. After all, it has built a universally-available telecommunications system, with fingertip accessibility to all the American people to use at minimum cost. Quite frankly, if more segments of local, state and federal governments had operated even with a modicum of the efficiency and foresight shown by the nation's telephone industry, the country would not be in the nest of troubles which now plague it.

A leading business executive, not associated with the telephone industry or with the Bell System, has expressed his views in testimony before the Senate subcommittee. It was his belief that any steps to inject competition into the now publicly-regulated telephone business should be undertaken "...only after finding that competition will result in a better telecommunications system, not merely a more segmented one." For instance, disrupting the Bell System by divesting it of its equipment supplier would, he said, simply reduce the company's income and "...adversely affect its ability to raise capital during this critical period. Such action would ultimately mean higher rates and less progressive developments for consumers and would not, therefore, serve the public interest." He also noted that such action would threaten the income of more than 3 million stockholders, as well as pension funds and millions of other people depending in part for their livelihood on dividends resulting from their stock ownership in American Telephone & Telegraph Company.

Our elected representatives should be devoting their attention to practically anything except further disruption of basic industry and the U.S. business system. Raising Cain with the modern telecommunications industry in the United States would be like taking a sledgehammer to a fine Swiss watch that had been keeping good time for 100 years.

Predicts Massive, viiolent Black racial strife -- Unless

Victor Riesel's guest columnist today is one of the nation's most influential black leaders. His organization rarely breaks into the news. But its impact is felt in hundreds of communities which are uptight and restless in the country's "central cities."

By LEON H. SULLIVAN
Minister, Zion Baptist Church

PHILADELPHIA -- Although this seems a time of economic recovery and more tranquility in our cities than in recent years, beneath the surface there is a seething volcano which will erupt one day and tear this country apart if we do not begin to do something on a significant scale about worsening problems in our urban communities.

While there have been benefits from the civil rights movement, the broader results still have not reached the great masses of blacks and other colored minorities in America. In fact, many are in as bad shape now as they ever were before. Conditions in our cities have actually gotten worse.

Most white Americans have no comprehension of the magnitude of inner city problems. They are massive; and most disheartening of all, there is little effort to improve conditions. Not a single program of national scope is being attempted to deal with deteriorating conditions of housing, unemployment, deprivation and hopelessness in the nation's concentrated communities.

Indeed, the prospect is that, within five years at most, unless the deterioration of our urban areas is reversed and the people given new hope, the nation will be caught once again in a wave of racial strife, ethnic division and riotous bedlam, the likes of which we have never witnessed before.

The situation has already gotten beyond any one part of the nation's capability to deal with in an effective way. The federal government by itself cannot sufficiently handle the situation, and money alone cannot solve the problem.

Need in America today is a combination of resources: capital, physical, human and spiritual, in a crusade of national rejuvenation, leading to the assurances of equal housing opportunities, assurances of equal job opportunities, assurances of the elimination of employment barriers in industries and unions, plus a national concentration on lifting the skills and productive capacities of the unemployed and underemployed among our nation's poor.

There is need for massive self-help rehabilitation, job creation and skill training efforts in our cities. Into these money from the government, resources from industry, cooperation from the community and the self-development of the people are all combined. It's a great national effort to provide every American, of every race and color, an equal chance at the starting line for jobs and opportunities.

In this respect a proposal calling for a nationwide job creation and skill training program to employ one million unemployed Americans is before the Congress now, which could become a beginning in bringing this about. The act requests support for self-help type programs like the OIC, the Opportunities Industrialization Centers of America.

It was begun in Philadelphia 13 years ago, in an old abandoned jailhouse, to help the unemployed and the underemployed improve their conditions, and it has since trained and placed 250,000 people in jobs and has operating or is developing centers in more than 200 urban and rural communities across the nation.

Because of the self-help nature of the program, the OIC trains a person for less than one-third the cost of the traditional government-type programs, with more than an 85 per cent retention of trainees placed on jobs. The rate on federal investment in OIC centers has already been returned 20 to 1, with an economic benefit to the country amounting to billions of dollars in new wages, new taxes and tax savings on relief checks.

In addition to OIC, this skills-training and job-creation bill provides for the broad and intensive participation of other community-based organizations like the Urban League, Plans for Progress, union organizations and others of demonstrated effectiveness in the comprehensive employment and job development field.

The bill was introduced in the Senate by Richard Schweiker and is already co-signed by more than 30 Senators of every political persuasion and from all geographical sections. A companion bill has been sponsored in the House by Congressman Perkins of Kentucky, chairman of the House Labor Committee, already with scores of co-signers.

According to one supporting Senator, this legislation, which many thought would not go very far, could become the rock in the water to create waves that could begin to make a difference in reaching the untrained and unemployed in America. While the debate on full employment is going on, the country sorely needs something practical like this to happen now, to give poor people some hope.

The OIC is multi-racial in composition and has been broadly endorsed by governors and mayors from across America. OIC has also built community-owned shopping centers, housing complexes and community-owned factories in its job-creation process.

The problems of the inner cities will only be solved by massive proliferation of this kind of self-help effort with the working together of government, industry, labor, community-based groups, and most of all, the people in the communities themselves, motivated by self-development.

Of this we can be sure: something like the OIC self-help thrust, and that of other community-based organizations, had better be widely attempted soon, and they had better succeed, or one day that volcano beneath us is going to blow up.

Man earns masters degree ringing bells

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Concertist Karel Keldermans' name rings a bell only in the more esoteric circles of Americam musicology. But his accomplishment reverberates through its annals.

Keldermans is the first person to earn a master's degree from a college in the United States for campanology and carillon performance. In simple terms, that's bell ringing.

After two years' study abroad, he returned home a few weeks ago to accept his degree from Sangamon State University and a post as chief carillonneur for the Springfield Park District.

Four times a week he climbs aloft in the Thomas C. Rees Memorial Carillon — one of 165 such instruments in the nation — and tolls a 66-bell concert.

Just to keep the record straight, there is one other person with a master's degree in theoretical campanology from a U.S. college, but it's not in carillon performance. And the University of Michigan offers a bachelor's degree, but no master's program.

Keldermans' studies, supervised by Sangamon State in a course he designed himself, covered the art of bell playing from casting to clapper.

"It's like studying any other musical instrument," he said in an interview. "You have to know things like harmony, theory, how to read notes and count time. I also studied theoretical stuff — how bells are cast, the mechanism, techniques, the types of keyboards. The paper I did was on comparing the foundry techniques of the 16th century with the 20th century."

Carillons got their start in Belgium, Holland and northern France in the 1500s. "Actually it developed out of about two or three bells that were hung in city halls to warn the city of fire, flood or invasion," Keldermans said. "Then somebody got to messing around with them. About 1450 they decided to add a keyboard."

Over the years the instrument died out. Generals like Napoleon found the bells a good source of brass cannon and the instrument was expensive.

"It's really revived," he said. "It wasn't until this century that they discovered how to cast bells like they used to. It really got started up again in Belgium around 1900."

Keldermans began to study the carillon in his teens under his father, a Belgium-born carillonneur of 40 years' experience who had the Springfield job until he lost it to his son.

Despite the instrument's massive size, one doesn't need a lot of muscles to play.

"You play it with your little finger," Keldermans said. "You've got your hand in the form of a fist. It's just a flick of the wrist. Your little finger is the only thing that hits the keys. If you know how to play correctly, it doesn't require any strength."

Unfortunately there is not enough money in carillon concerts to support a fellow and his family. So Keldermans must work another job.

He's employed by the largest producer and consumer of bells in the world, the telephone company.

Termites generally attack only dead wood or wood products, but a species found in Panama carries fungi with it to kill trees so the insects can eat them.

Registration is set for Matthews schools

MATTHEWS — Registration for Matthews elementary and high school students will be conducted Monday and Tuesday.

Seniors will register at 8 a.m. Monday, eighth graders at 10 a.m. and juniors at 1 p.m. Monday.

On Tuesday, sophomores will register at 8 a.m., seventh graders at 10:00 a.m. and freshmen at 1 p.m.

Elementary students may register at any time between 8 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. either day.

All students should have their locker partners and locker fee of 50 cents. Lockers will be assigned to students when they register.

Lunches will be 40 cents per day for students. Free and reduced price lunches also will be available for students who qualify.

TRCC to begin registration Tuesday

POPLAR BLUFF — Registration for two classes in the Continuing Education Division at Three Rivers Community College will be conducted Tuesday at 6:30 p.m., in the main academic building at 507 Vine St.

Persons interested in these classes, Practical Speech and Pratical Spanish, also may register at the initial meeting of either class.

Instruction in Practical Speech will begin Aug. 23. The class will meet Tuesdays, 6:30 - 8:30 p.m., in room 4 of the main building. Michael Boulard will be the instructor. The class will include study and practice of all elements necessary for effective oral communication.

There are no prerequisites for the class and it will be open to all adults interested in improving their communication skills. The cost for the course will be $22 for residents of the college district and $34 for nonresidents.

Practical Spanish will be offered Thursdays, 6:30-8:30 p.m., in room 31 of the main building. The first class will meet Aug. 17. Javier Alcaraz will be the instructor. The course is designed for persons who have never studied the Spanish language and want to learn the basics for converation. The class was organized in response to requests from persons planning trips to Mexico.

The cost for the class will be $11 for residents of the college district and $17 for nonresidents. Both classes will meet once a week for 15 weeks.

For additional information on these and other classes to be offered this fall through the Continuing Education Division at TRCC, contact Kenneth Howard, director of continuing education, telephone number 785-7794, extension 52.

Unemployment benefits show county increase

JEFFERSON CITY — A total of $350,678 in unemployment benefits were disbursed during July, compared to $571,045 in the same period in 1975, Murl Nash, informational supervisor of the Missouri Division of Employment Security, has announced.

The greatest amount of benefits was paid in Scott County, totaling $338,743 -- an increse of over $100,000 from the same period in 1975.

In other local counties, however, payments decreased dramatically.

In Stoddard County, for example, a total of $153,174 was paid in July 1975, but only $4,292 was paid out in July of this year.

In Mississippi County this year, $3,340 was paid, compared to $103,634 in July 1975. This was also the least amount paid in July in the four- county area administered through the division's Sikeston office.

In New Madrid County, $4,303 in benefits was paid out, compared to $108,094 during the same period in 1975.

Police arrest 5 juveniles in gas, tool thefts

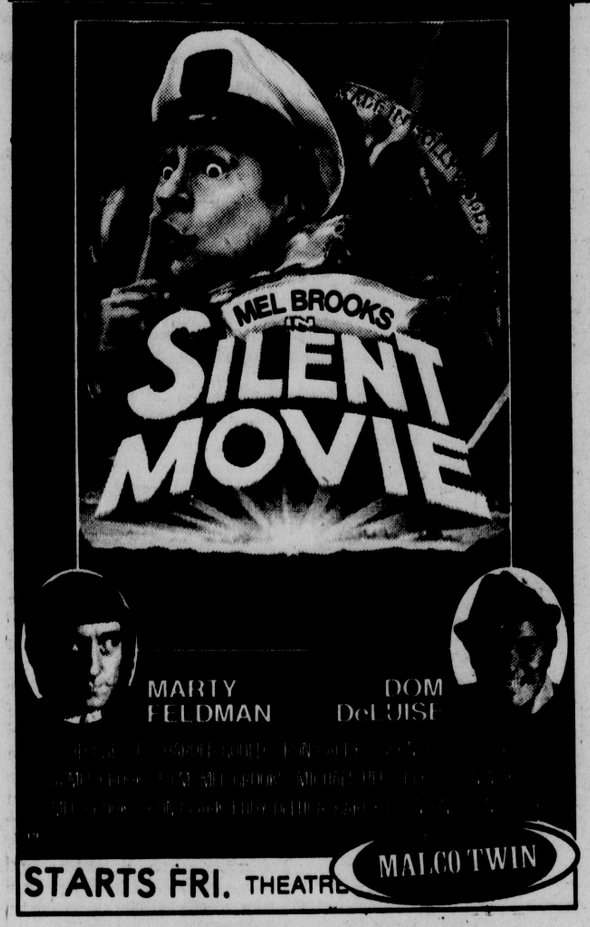

DEXTER — Police have arrested five Dexter juveniles in connection with thefts involving tools and gasoline.

The first three juveniles, all boys, were picked up after Ralph Buchanan reported tools he was using had been stolen. The tools were used on a project on Highway 114 West, and were apparently stolen sometime between Thursday and Sunday. The theft was discovered early Monday morning.

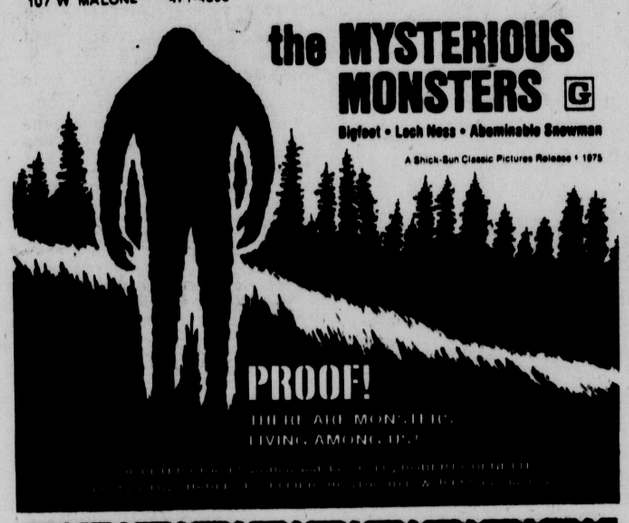

The three juveniles were arrested, the tools recovered and the trio turned over to juvenile authorities.

The ther two juvenile boys were arrested after they allegedly siphoned gasoline from a pickup truck.

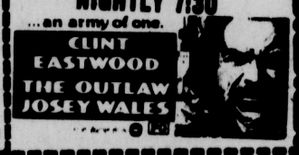

Names of juveniles arrested are not released, in accordance with Missouri law.

Man earns masters degree ringing bells

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Concertist Karel Keldermans' name rings a bell only in the more esoteric circles of Americam musicology. But his accomplishment reverberates through its annals.

Keldermans is the first person to earn a master's degree from a college in the United States for campanology and carillon performance. In simple terms, that's bell ringing.

After two years' study abroad, he returned home a few weeks ago to accept his degree from Sangamon State University and a post as chief carillonneur for the Springfield Park District.

Four times a week he climbs aloft in the Thomas C. Rees Memorial Carillon — one of 165 such instruments in the nation — and tolls a 66-bell concert.

Just to keep the record straight, there is one other person with a master's degree in theoretical campanology from a U.S. college, but it's not in carillon performance. And the University of Michigan offers a bachelor's degree, but no master's program.

Keldermans' studies, supervised by Sangamon State in a course he designed himself, covered the art of bell playing from casting to clapper.

"It's like studying any other musical instrument," he said in an interview. "You have to know things like harmony, theory, how to read notes and count time. I also studied theoretical stuff — how bells are cast, the mechanism, techniques, the types of keyboards. The paper I did was on comparing the foundry techniques of the 16th century with the 20th century."

Carillons got their start in Belgium, Holland and northern France in the 1500s. "Actually it developed out of about two or three bells that were hung in city halls to warn the city of fire, flood or invasion," Keldermans said. "Then somebody got to messing around with them. About 1450 they decided to add a keyboard."

Over the years the instrument died out. Generals like Napoleon found the bells a good source of brass cannon and the instrument was expensive.

"It's really revived," he said. "It wasn't until this century that they discovered how to cast bells like they used to. It really got started up again in Belgium around 1900."

Keldermans began to study the carillon in his teens under his father, a Belgium-born carillonneur of 40 years' experience who had the Springfield job until he lost it to his son.

Despite the instrument's massive size, one doesn't need a lot of muscles to play.

"You play it with your little finger," Keldermans said. "You've got your hand in the form of a fist. It's just a flick of the wrist. Your little finger is the only thing that hits the keys. If you know how to play correctly, it doesn't require any strength."

Unfortunately there is not enough money in carillon concerts to support a fellow and his family. So Keldermans must work another job.

He's employed by the largest producer and consumer of bells in the world, the telephone company.

Termites generally attack only dead wood or wood products, but a species found in Panama carries fungi with it to kill trees so the insects can eat them.

Registration is set for Matthews schools

MATTHEWS — Registration for Matthews elementary and high school students will be conducted Monday and Tuesday.

Seniors will register at 8 a.m. Monday, eighth graders at 10 a.m. and juniors at 1 p.m. Monday.

On Tuesday, sophomores will register at 8 a.m., seventh graders at 10:00 a.m. and freshmen at 1 p.m.

Elementary students may register at any time between 8 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. either day.

All students should have their locker partners and locker fee of 50 cents. Lockers will be assigned to students when they register.

Lunches will be 40 cents per day for students. Free and reduced price lunches also will be available for students who qualify.

TRCC to begin registration Tuesday

POPLAR BLUFF — Registration for two classes in the Continuing Education Division at Three Rivers Community College will be conducted Tuesday at 6:30 p.m., in the main academic building at 507 Vine St.

Persons interested in these classes, Practical Speech and Pratical Spanish, also may register at the initial meeting of either class.

Instruction in Practical Speech will begin Aug. 23. The class will meet Tuesdays, 6:30 - 8:30 p.m., in room 4 of the main building. Michael Boulard will be the instructor. The class will include study and practice of all elements necessary for effective oral communication.

There are no prerequisites for the class and it will be open to all adults interested in improving their communication skills. The cost for the course will be $22 for residents of the college district and $34 for nonresidents.

Practical Spanish will be offered Thursdays, 6:30-8:30 p.m., in room 31 of the main building. The first class will meet Aug. 17. Javier Alcaraz will be the instructor. The course is designed for persons who have never studied the Spanish language and want to learn the basics for converation. The class was organized in response to requests from persons planning trips to Mexico.

The cost for the class will be $11 for residents of the college district and $17 for nonresidents. Both classes will meet once a week for 15 weeks.

For additional information on these and other classes to be offered this fall through the Continuing Education Division at TRCC, contact Kenneth Howard, director of continuing education, telephone number 785-7794, extension 52.

Unemployment benefits show county increase

JEFFERSON CITY — A total of $350,678 in unemployment benefits were disbursed during July, compared to $571,045 in the same period in 1975, Murl Nash, informational supervisor of the Missouri Division of Employment Security, has announced.

The greatest amount of benefits was paid in Scott County, totaling $338,743 -- an increse of over $100,000 from the same period in 1975.

In other local counties, however, payments decreased dramatically.

In Stoddard County, for example, a total of $153,174 was paid in July 1975, but only $4,292 was paid out in July of this year.

In Mississippi County this year, $3,340 was paid, compared to $103,634 in July 1975. This was also the least amount paid in July in the four- county area administered through the division's Sikeston office.

In New Madrid County, $4,303 in benefits was paid out, compared to $108,094 during the same period in 1975.

Police arrest 5 juveniles in gas, tool thefts

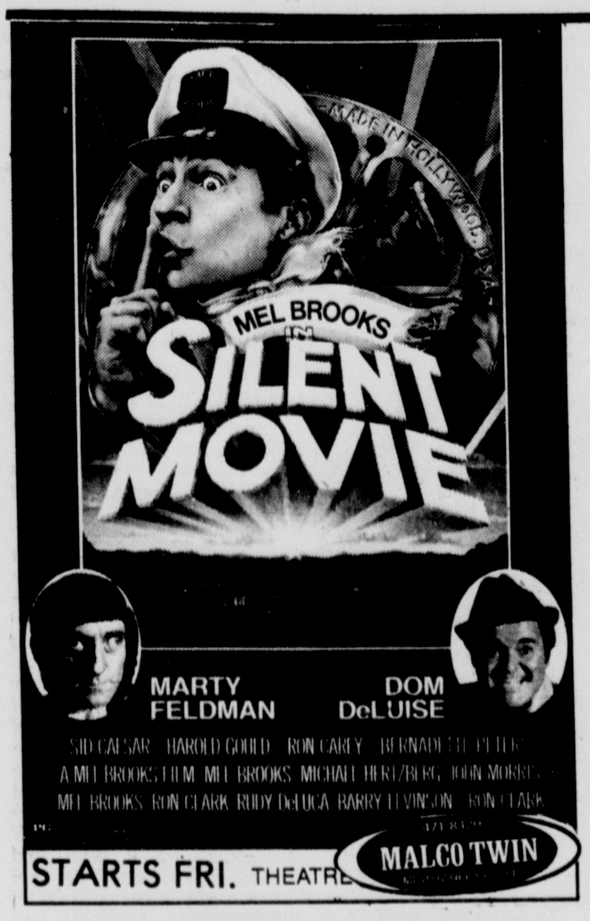

DEXTER — Police have arrested five Dexter juveniles in connection with thefts involving tools and gasoline.

The first three juveniles, all boys, were picked up after Ralph Buchanan reported tools he was using had been stolen. The tools were used on a project on Highway 114 West, and were apparently stolen sometime between Thursday and Sunday. The theft was discovered early Monday morning.

The three juveniles were arrested, the tools recovered and the trio turned over to juvenile authorities.

The ther two juvenile boys were arrested after they allegedly siphoned gasoline from a pickup truck.

Names of juveniles arrested are not released, in accordance with Missouri law.

2,500 cadets attend 6 weeks of training

JUNCTION CITY, Kan. — After six weeks of rigorous training, Army Reserve Officers Training Corps cadets have left the advanced camp at Ft. Riley.

With a theme of "Learn What It Takes to Lead," the 19th annual advanced camp complemented the on-campus instruction of over 2,500 cadets from 11 colleges and universities in a 17- state area, including Alabama, Arkansas, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Michigan, Mississippi, Missouri, New Mexico, Ohio, Oklahoma, Tennesee, Texas and Wisconsin.

Approximately 10 per cent of the 2,500 cadets this year were women. While 1975 was the first time women attended advanced camps, this year marks the first time women will be commissioned at Ft. Riley.

Most cadets attend advanced camp to fulfill requirements between their junior and senior years of college. However, a number of graduating seniors also attend and receive commissions at the completion of camp.

The first training cycle ended July 23 with the second cycle wound up July 30.

HAVE YOU WRITTEN A BOOK?

Mr. John G. Long the field editor of a well-known New York subsidy publishing firm will be interviewing local authors in a quest for finished manuscripts suitable for book publication. All subjects will be considered, including fiction and non-fiction, poetry, juveniles, religious books, etc.

He will be in Sikeston in early October.

If you have completed a book-length manuscript (or nearly so) on any subject, and would like a professional appraisal (without cost or obligation), please write immediately and describe your work. State whether you would prefer a morning, afternoon, or evening appointment, and kindly mention your phone number. You will receive a confirmation by mail for a definite time and place.

Authors with completed manuscripts unable to appear may send them directly to us for a free reading and evaluation. We will also be glad to hear from those whose literary works are still in progress.

This leather isn't tough

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

If you want to have some real fun and you've never made Fruit Leather or, as some cooks are now calling it, Fruit Jerky, I strongly advise you to try the following recipe. It calls for pureed fresh peaches and plums plus honey and gives directions for drying the puree in sheets in pans lined with plastic wrap.

When the recipe came into my kitchen I couldn't wait to test it because I had seen many rules for Peach Leather in old-time American cookbooks and I thought making Peach-Plum Leather or Jerky would be a fitting culinary adventure in this Bicentennial year. It was.

I dried one pan of the fruit puree on my rooftop terrace on a sunny day and finished it off in the kitchen range. The other pan was dried completely in my electric range — one that has an excellent thermostat and signal light. The adventure came when the fruit was ready to be peeled off the plastic wrap it was bedded down on. The sheets of puree were dry but pliable and a beautiful dark peachy-plum color. The puree came away from the wrap like a dream, wonderfully shiny on the underside, ready to be rolled and stored. What a feeling of accomplishment! No wonder pioneer cooks made their deliciously edible fruit leathers.

OLD-TIME FRUIT LEATHER OR JERKY—You can make a lovely variety with fresh peaches and plums plus honey.

PEACH-PLUM LEATHER OR JERKY

1¼ pounds fresh peaches
1 pound fresh plums
¼ cup honey

Let peaches stand covered with boiling water for about a minute; rinse with cold water and slip off skins. Thinly slice the peaches and unpeeled plums, discarding pits and keeping each fruit separate. You need 2½ cups of each fruit. In a large saucepan, stirring constantly, slowly bring the plums and honey to a boil; add the peaches and, stirring constantly, boil for 3 minutes. Puree in an electric blender; cool to lukewarm.

Line the bottoms of 2 jellyroll pans (each 15 by 10 by 1 inch) with clear plastic wrap. Pour the fruit into the pans, spreading thinly and evenly — it will be no more than ⅛-inch thick. Dry in full sun or in the oven following directions below. The fruit puree will be dry enough when, after loosening an edge with a small metal spatula, you can peel it away from the plastic wrap in a sheet. Roll it up in plastic wrap so that the wrap touches each part of the fruit sheet. Store in the refrigerator (as long as 4 months) or in the freezer (as long as 8 months).

Makes 2 large leathers. To serve as jerky, cut into strips.

Sun Drying: Place 2 strips of wood (we used strips about 1 inch wide and 1 inch thick) across the length or width of each pan so the strips are parallel and near the edges. Cover each pan with a single thickness of cheesecloth — the strips will keep it from touching the puree. Pull the cheesecloth taut and tuck it under each pan as you place them in full sun to dry. The drying time will vary from 8 to 24 hours. If not quite dry after the first day, bring the pans indoors overnight and continue drying in the sun a second day. Or finish drying in the even according to directions for Oven Drying.

Oven Drying: Preheat the oven to Warm (140 to 150 degrees); turn off the heat; place the pans in the middle of the oven. For an electric oven, reheat as necessary to maintain a Warm temperature — a portable oven thermometer placed in the oven will show when this is needed. Pans need not be removed when the oven is reheated, but stay close by and turn off the heat as soon as the Warm temperate is reached. It's okay to leave the pans in the oven overnight without reheating and continue drying according to directions the next day. A gas oven will not need reheating because the pilot light will provide enough warmth; open the door occasionally to let moisture escape.

American women have long history of activism

NEW YORK (AP) — Though the nation will focus on the accomplishments of today's women on Women's Equality Day Aug. 26, research shows women have been prominent in journalism, politics, sports and other fields throughout the country's history.

Even before there was a United States, Anne Franklin, Benjamin Franklin's sister-in-law, had become the first woman newspaper editor in America.

Mrs. Franklin took charge of the Newport, R.I., Mercury on Aug. 22, 1762, when her son, James Jr., died. And, she not only edited the publication then, but had previously kept her late husband's printing business going from 1735 to 1758 while James Jr. was growing up.

Women continued to make steady progress in the field of journalism, and by 1866 the United States had its first woman White House correspondent, Emily Edson Briggs. Using the penname, "Olivia," she wrote a regular report, "Olivia Letters," for the Philadelphia Press for 16 years.

During the same period, Elizabeth Cochrane Seaman, under the name "Nellie Bly," wrote sensational exposes of the conditions in women's prisons and mental hospitals.

An early investigative reporter, Mrs. Seaman once arranged to be arrested so she could report accurately on the treatment of women prisoners. And, according to The World Book Encyclopedia, she also feigned insanity to gain admittance to a New York City mental hospital, in order to write about conditions.

The suffrage movement of the 1800s brought the first heavy involvement of women in politics and one of the earliest efforts at mass consciousness-raising.

Victoria Claflin Woodhull was the first woman to run for president of the United States, in 1872, and other leaders of the movement who were in the news of their day included Elizabeth C. Stanton, Lucretia Mott and Susan B. Anthony.

Women racking up "firsts" today were preceded in U.S. history by earlier precedent-breakers: Susan Medora Salter, the first woman mayor, Argonia, Kan., 1887; Martha Hughes Cannon, first woman state senator, Utah, 1896; Nellie Tayloe Ross, first woman elected governor of a state, Wyoming, 1925, and the first woman director of the U.S. Mint, 1933-53; Hattie Ophelia Wyatt Caraway, D-Ark., in 1932 the first woman elected U.S. Senator.

Female sports stars today are following in the footsteps of Babe Didrikson Zaharias (1914-1956), named by The Associated Press in 1950 as outstanding woman athlete of the first half of the 1900s.

She won fame as an outstanding golfer; she set world records in the 1932 Olympics in the women's 80-meter hurdles and the javelin throw; she was on the AAU All-American women's basketball team in 1930 and 1931; and she competed in swimming, baseball, football, billiards, tennis, and even did a little boxing.

But long before Babe was making news the first women's baseball team, The Young Ladies Baseball Club No. 1, was touring the country and competing with men's teams in 1890.

Secretaries may turn stoolies for cash

Dear Ann: I am not making this up. In fact I am reading it right out of the newspaper. I'd like your views because I'm beginning to think I am nuts.

The People's Bicentennial Commission brought its "Send-Your-Boss-to-Jail" campaign to Chicago. Secretaries are asked to report any illegal activities engaged in by the executive who employes them.

Secretaries of 41 Chicago-area companies listed by Fortune magazine as among the 500 largest industrial corporations in the U.S. will soon receive letters offering a $25,000 reward to any secretary who furnishes information leading to the conviction and imprisonment of a major corporate executive for illegal business activities.

Similar letters will go out to 8,000 wives of executives, but no reward will be offered to them. The aim of the campaign is to stimulate an interest in business ethics.

What do you think about this, Ann Landers? – Color Me Bug-Eyed

Dear Bug: I think the whole thing smells like a barrel of lost herring. Color ME "Disgusted."

Dear Ann Landers: You don't goof very often, but when you do, it's a humdinger.

I refer to your response to the anesthesiologist who said, "What a pity the family of the deceased man who gave his kidneys and eyes couldn't be on hand to see the joy of the recipient and his loved ones!"

The anesthesiologist then described the excitement and the gratitude in the patient's room just before surgery, and again when the operation was declared a success.

You agreed, "It's too bad the gift had to be anonymous." I couldn't believe it!

Place yourself in the position of the mother of a young person killed in an auto accident. How would YOU like to "be on hand" to see the joy of the recipient of your son's eyes or a kidney? I can think of nothing more painful.

Where was your head when you answered that one, Ann? -- Disappointed

Dear D.: My head was undoubtedly on my shoulders, but I agree it wasn't on very straight.

You are right. The sentiments expressed by the anesthesiologist disregarded the feelings of the bereaved. I should have been sharp enough to have set her straight but I wasn't. I'm glad YOU were, however. Thanks for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: My wife and I are having a serious problem with our 19-year-old daughter. Wanda lives at home. There are two other children, 12 and 16.

Wanda works full-time but pays no room and board. She is a sensitive, intelligent person and we love her dearly. She thinks we are "horrible" because we refuse to allow her to entertain her boyfriend in her bedroom with the door locked. She admits they have had sex.

Her argument: She can't live her life by our values. Our argument: We may be old-fashioned but she should respect our point of view. Please express yourself. -- Embattled Parents

Dear E.P.: I may sound like a broken record but I'm going to say it again. Tell your Now-Generation daughter, "What you do when you are out of our sight is up to you. If you choose to have sex, we can't do anything about it. But -- NOT IN OUR HOUSE."

Even if drinking is the "in" thing in your crowd, it needn't crowd you out. Learn the facts from Annn Landers's booklet, "Booze and You -- For Teenagers Only." Send 50 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

This leather isn't tough

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

If you want to have some real fun and you've never made Fruit Leather or, as some cooks are now calling it, Fruit Jerky, I strongly advise you to try the following recipe. It calls for pureed fresh peaches and plums plus honey and gives directions for drying the puree in sheets in pans lined with plastic wrap.

When the recipe came into my kitchen I couldn't wait to test it because I had seen many rules for Peach Leather in old-time American cookbooks and I thought making Peach-Plum Leather or Jerky would be a fitting culinary adventure in this Bicentennial year. It was.

I dried one pan of the fruit puree on my rooftop terrace on a sunny day and finished it off in the kitchen range. The other pan was dried completely in my electric range — one that has an excellent thermostat and signal light. The adventure came when the fruit was ready to be peeled off the plastic wrap it was bedded down on. The sheets of puree were dry but pliable and a beautiful dark peachy-plum color. The puree came away from the wrap like a dream, wonderfully shiny on the underside, ready to be rolled and stored. What a feeling of accomplishment! No wonder pioneer cooks made their deliciously edible fruit leathers.

PEACH-PLUM LEATHER OR JERKY

1¼ pounds fresh peaches
1 pound fresh plums
¼ cup honey

Let peaches stand covered with boiling water for about a minute; rinse with cold water and slip off skins. Thinly slice the peaches and unpeeled plums, discarding pits and keeping each fruit separate. You need 2½ cups of each fruit. In a large saucepan, stirring constantly, slowly bring the plums and honey to a boil; add the peaches and, stirring constantly, boil for 3 minutes. Puree in an electric blender; cool to lukewarm.

Line the bottoms of 2 jellyroll pans (each 15 by 10 by 1 inch) with clear plastic wrap. Pour the fruit into the pans, spreading thinly and evenly — it will be no more than ⅛-inch thick. Dry in full sun or in the oven following directions below. The fruit puree will be dry enough when, after loosening an edge with a small metal spatula, you can peel it away from the plastic wrap in a sheet. Roll it up in plastic wrap so that the wrap touches each part of the fruit sheet. Store in the refrigerator (as long as 4 months) or in the freezer (as long as 8 months).

Makes 2 large leathers. To serve as jerky, cut into strips.

Sun Drying: Place 2 strips of wood (we used strips about 1 inch wide and 1 inch thick) across the length or width of each pan so the strips are parallel and near the edges. Cover each pan with a single thickness of cheesecloth — the strips will keep it from touching the puree. Pull the cheesecloth taut and tuck it under each pan as you place them in full sun to dry. The drying time will vary from 8 to 24 hours. If not quite dry after the first day, bring the pans indoors overnight and continue drying in the sun a second day. Or finish drying in the even according to directions for Oven Drying.

Oven Drying: Preheat the oven to Warm (140 to 150 degrees); turn off the heat; place the pans in the middle of the oven. For an electric oven, reheat as necessary to maintain a Warm temperature — a portable oven thermometer placed in the oven will show when this is needed. Pans need not be removed when the oven is reheated, but stay close by and turn off the heat as soon as the Warm temperate is reached. It's okay to leave the pans in the oven overnight without reheating and continue drying according to directions the next day. A gas oven will not need reheating because the pilot light will provide enough warmth; open the door occasionally to let moisture escape.

OLD-TIME FRUIT LEATHER OR JERKY—You can make a lovely variety with fresh peaches and plums plus honey.

Daily Record

FIRES

Firemen were called at 2:35 p.m. Wednesday to extinguish a small grass fire at the Jackie Jenkins home, 124 Sixth St.

The grass fire was apparently started by burning trash.

MARRIAGES DISSOLVED

CHARLESTON — Dissolution of marriage decrees awarded by Judge Marshall Craig during Circuit Court proceedings Tuesday included:

Deborah Louise Bennett and Dennis Alan Bennett, with Mrs. Bennett's maiden name of Kemp restored.

Margaret Ann Shull and Ora Sidney Shull, with custody of four children and $40 per week for child support awarded to Mrs. Shull and custody of one child awarded to Shull.

Both parents were granted visitation privileges.

Willie Alfred Cox and Anne Tubbs Cox.

CIRCUIT COURT

CHARLESTON — Stanley Davidson of East Prairie was sentenced Tuesday to two years in custody of the state Department of Corrections by Circuit Judge Marshall Craig for assault with intent to kill.

Davidson, who entered a plea of guilty to a Feb. 5 assault with a shotgun on Thomas Linley of East Prairie, was denied probation.

His wife, Linda Davidson, received a stay on a two- year sentence and was placed on two-year supervised probation for assault with intent to kill in connection with an assault with a .22-caliber rifle on Margie Linley of East Prairie on Feb. 5.

A two- year sentence in custody of the Department of Correction pronounced against Jimmy Tatum for stealing was stayed and he was placed on two- year supervised probation. Conditions of probation for Tatum, who pleaded guilty to stealing a tool box and tools owned by A. L. Burnett of Charleston on June 10, include obeying the law, paying court costs, remaining under the supervision of his probation officer and using no intoxicants or drugs.

Richard Dale Oliphant of East Prairie withdrew a not guilty plea and pleaded guilty to burglary and stealing. The charges had been filed in connection with a break-in May 2 at East Prairie Shell Service and the theft of six tires, a case of oil and a box of tools. A presentencing investigation was ordered and Oliphant is to report back to court on Sept. 14.

Jerry Summers common assault (reduced from felonious assault, pleaded guilty, fined $50 plus costs and given a six- month suspended jail sentence.

Bad checks

A presentencing investigation was ordered for Clyde George Caldwell of East Prairie, following the appointment of an attorney to represent him and entering a plea of guilty to a charge of issuing an insufficent funds check reduced from issuing a fradulent check). He is to report back to court Sept. 14.

Ronnie W. Amick of East Prairie also pleaded guilty to an amended charge of issuing an insufficent funds check (reduced from issuing a fradulent check) and a presentencing investigation was ordered by Judge Craig.

Amick and Caldwell pleaded guilty to passing a $12.52 bad check on July 6 at Charleston IGA Foodliner.

Trials for Charles Wade McKenzie and Danny J. Fincher of East Prairie, each charged with issuing fraudulent checks, were set for Oct. 13. McKenzie is accused of passing a $22.75 bad check and Fincher is accused of passing the same check and a $12.52 bad check July 6 at Charlston IGA.

Trial set

Trial of Phillip Carlyle of East Prairie on two counts of selling a controlled substance (marijuana) to undercover officers of the highway patrol was scheduled for Sept. 22.

Continued cases

Jesse Hester of East Prairie, selling a controlled substance (marijuana), pleaded not guilty.

Adam Wright, stealing $520 June 16 from Clifton Brumley of Wyatt, pleaded guilty and a presentencing investigation was ordered.

Continued to Sept. 14 was a burglary charge against Charles T. Scott of Charleston, who is accused of breaking into the Teresa McCauley home on March 2.

Civil cases

A default judgment totaling $2,299.56 was awarded Michael Allen Euer in a suit for damages filed against William Otis Adams.

Charleston Auto Parks, Co. received a default judgment of $4,382.30 in an account suit against Glen Perry, doing business as Perry Motor Co.

Dismissed with prejudice at costs to the plaintiff was an account suit filed by W. R. Grace against Joe True.

Change of judge

Applications for change of judge was sustained and Judge Stanley A. Grimm of Cape Girardeau was designated special judge to hear stealing charges against Larry Johnson and Bryant Johnston of East Prairie. The two are accused of stealing 500 metal tie plates Feb. 20 from Missouri Pacific Railroad Co.

Daily Record

FIRES

Firemen were called at 2:35 p.m. Wednesday to extinguish a small grass fire at the Jackie Jenkins home, 124 Sixth St.

The grass fire was apparently started by burning trash.

MARRIAGES DISSOLVED

CHARLESTON — Dissolution of marriage decrees awarded by Judge Marshall Craig during Cicuit Court proceedings Tuesday included:

Deborah Louise Bennett and Dennis Alan Bennett, with Mrs. Bennett's maiden name of Kemp restored.

Margaret Ann Shull and Ora Sidney Shull, with custody of four children and $40 per week for child support awarded to Mrs. Shull and custody of one child awarded to Shull.

Both parents were granted visitation privileges.

Willie Alfred Cox and Anne Tubbs Cox.

CIRCUIT COURT

CHARLESTON — Stanley Davidson of East Prairie was sentenced Tuesday to two years in custody of the state Department of Corrections by Circuit Judge Marshall Craig for assault with intent to kill.

Davidson, who entered a plea of guilty to a Feb. 5 assault with a shotgun on Thomas Linley of East Prairie, was denied probation.

His wife, Linda Davidson, received a stay on a two- year sentence and was placed on two-year supervised probation for assault with intent to kill in connection with an assault with a .22-caliber rifle on Margie Linley of East Prairie on Feb. 5.

A two- year sentence in custody of the Department of Correction pronounced against Jimmy Tatum for stealing was stayed and he was placed on two- year supervised probation. Conditions of probation for Tatum, who pleaded guilty to stealing a tool box and tools owned by A. L. Burnett of Charleston on June 10, include obeying the law, paying court costs, remaining under the supervision of his probation officer and using no intoxicants or drugs.

Richard Dale Oliphant of East Prairie withdrew a not guilty plea and pleaded guilty to burglary and stealing. The charges had been filed in connection with a break-in May 2 at East Prairie Shell Service and the theft of six tires, a case of oil and a box of tools. A presentencing investigation was ordered and Oliphant is to report back to court on Sept. 14.

Jerry Summers common assault (reduced from felonious assault, pleaded guilty, fined $50 plus costs and given a six- month suspended jail sentence.

Bad checks

A presentencing investigation was ordered for Clyde George Caldwell of East Prairie, following the appointment of an attorney to represent him and entering a plea of guilty to a charge of issuing an insufficent funds check reduced from issuing a fradulent check). He is to report back to court Sept. 14.

Ronnie W. Amick of East Prairie also pleaded guilty to an amended charge of issuing an insufficent funds check (reduced from issuing a fradulent check) and a presentencing investigation was ordered by Judge Craig.

Amick and Caldwell pleaded guilty to passing a $12.52 bad check on July 6 at Charleston IGA Foodliner.

Trials for Charles Wade McKenzie and Danny J. Fincher of East Prairie, each charged with issuing fraudulent checks, were set for Oct. 13. McKenzie is accused of passing a $22.75 bad check and Fincher is accused of passing the same check and a $12.52 bad check July 6 at Charlston IGA.

Trial set

Trial of Phillip Carlyle of East Prairie on two counts of selling a controlled substance (marijuana) to undercover officers of the highway patrol was scheduled for Sept. 22.

Continued cases

Jesse Hester of East Prairie, selling a controlled substance (marijuana), pleaded not guilty.

Adam Wright, stealing $520 June 16 from Clifton Brumley of Wyatt, pleaded guilty and a presentencing investigation was ordered.

Continued to Sept. 14 was a burglary charge against Charles T. Scott of Charleston, who is accused of breaking into the Teresa McCauley home on March 2.

Civil cases

A default judgment totaling $2,299.56 was awarded Michael Allen Euer in a suit for damages filed against William Otis Adams.

Charleston Auto Parks, Co. received a default judgment of $4,382.30 in an account suit against Glen Perry, doing business as Perry Motor Co.

Dismissed with prejudice at costs to the plaintiff was an account suit filed by W. R. Grace against Joe True.

Change of judge

Applications for change of judge was sustained and Judge Stanley A. Grimm of Cape Girardeau was designated special judge to hear stealing charges against Larry Johnson and Bryant Johnston of East Prairie. The two are accused of stealing 500 metal tie plates Feb. 20 from Missouri Pacific Railroad Co.

New small claims court is simplified, streamlined

Missouri's new small claims court system, designed to allow persons with claims of $500 or less to go to court without a lawyer, goes into effect Friday.

But rules and procedures, although simplified and streamlined for the new court, must be followed.

They are explained in a booklet, "How to use the Small Claims Court", produced by the Missouri Supreme Court, which will be available Friday.

Should you decide to file a lawsuit in the small claims court, here are some points to remember:

Where to file: Generally, the correct place to file is in the county where the claim arose.

—The City of St. Louis: File in the office of the chief clerk of the magistrate courts, located on the fourth floor of the Civil Courts Building, across from city hall downtown at the northeast corner of 12th Boulevard and Market Street.

—St. Louis County: File in one of the 11 magistrate courts, most of which are located on the second floor of the new St. Louis County Courthouse, 7900 Carondelet Ave., Clayton.

Because different judges will accept small claims finings each week, check the notices posted for the correct court.

The second district magistrate court will accept cases for the first week.

—Other counties: File with the clerk of the county magistrate court.

—The complete name and address of the person or business you're suing. Include the zip code and telephone number.

The court booklet explains: "After you have filed your claim, the court will mail a notice to the person you have sued (the defendant).

"This notice will state the date and time he is to come to court and the reason why he is being sued. This is why you need the correct address."

New small claims court is simplified, streamlined

Missouri's new small claims court system, designed to allow persons with claims of $500 or less to go to court without a lawyer, goes into effect Friday.

But rules and procedures, although simplified and streamlined for the new court, must be followed.

They are explained in a booklet, "How to use the Small Claims Court", produced by the Missouri Supreme Court, which will be available Friday.

Should you decide to file a lawsuit in the small claims court, here are some points to remember:

Where to file: Generally, the correct place to file is in the county where the claim arose.

—The City of St. Louis: File in the office of the chief clerk of the magistrate courts, located on the fourth floor of the Civil Courts Building, across from city hall downtown at the northeast corner of 12th Boulevard and Market Street.

—St. Louis County: File in one of the 11 magistrate courts, most of which are located on the second floor of the new St. Louis County Courthouse, 7900 Carondelet Ave., Clayton.

Because different judges will accept small claims finings each week, check the notices posted for the correct court.

The second district magistrate court will accept cases for the first week.

—Other counties: File with the clerk of the county magistrate court.

—The complete name and address of the person or business you're suing. Include the zip code and telephone number.

The court booklet explains: "After you have filed your claim, the court will mail a notice to the person you have sued (the defendant).

"This notice will state the date and time he is to come to court and the reason why he is being sued. This is why you need the correct address."

Public Pensions Part III

Federal pension plans offer the best retirement deal

Associated Press Writer

Federal pension plans offer the best retirement deal in the nation to their workers, from the president of the United States to the mailman. But the pension funds also are among the most debt-ridden.

The 21 major pension plans covering federal employes have an unfunded debt of nearly $500 billion, according to estimates compiled by the National Taxpayers Union, a private non-profit research group. That $500 billion is money guaranteed to present and future retireees, money the pension plans do not have on hand and that each taxpayer will have to shell out over the coming years.

As of March 1, the pension plan of the largest federal employer, the Civil Service Commission, had unfunded pension debts to 4.2 million active and retired workers totaling $101 billion.

In the military retirement system, the unfunded debt to 3.1 million active and retired employes is $172 billion.

The pension fund covering the U.S. foreign service has an unfunded debt of $1 billion.

And the Central Intelligence Agency owes an estimated 16,000 employes, both active and retired, approximately $3 billion more than it has on hand, the National Taxpayers Union estimates. (The CIA does not make such statistics available.)

Under the Presidential Retirement Act, former President Nixon gets $63,000 a year in retirement pay. Three presidential widows — Mamie Eisenhower, Bess Truman and Jaqueline Kennedy Onassis — get $20,000 a year each. It is estimated that the fund providing that money will be $3 billion in debt over the life of its commitments.

Of the 21 principal federal pension plans, only one — the Federal Reserve System Retirement Plan covering 1,500 employes — is fully funded, meaning that if the plan went out of existence, it would have the assets to pay all its pension debts on the spot.

The rest of the plans apparently are relying on faith in the federal government's ability to tax 215 million Americans and print more money — something cities and states with billion-dollar pension debts can't do.

In the U.S. Civil Service, basic pension benefits average $550 a month or $6,600 a year, according to David Minton, a staffer for the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee. But a retiree who started at that pension level three years ago has seen his post-retirement benefits grow to $8,494 when the cost-of-living allowance is added, according to calculations done by the actuarial firm Program Planners, Inc., of New York.

While state and local public employes must serve an average of 10 years — known as the vesting period — before they can start collecting even a reduced pension, some U.S. civil servants can collect retirement pay after only five years. After 41 years of service, a federal employe can get 80 per cent of the average of his three highest salaries years of service.

Unlike nearly all private workers and many state and local public employes, federal civilian workers are not entitled to Social Security benefits. But it is common for federal workers to "moonlight" in private jobs long enough to qualify for Social Security.

With that combined coverage, a retired civil servant often can make more in retirement benefits than he took home while working.

To get his generous pension, however, the federal employe must contribute 7 per cent of his yearly salary. Most private plans do not require employe contributions and state and local public workers have to pay only 4 or 5 per cent of their salaries toward pensions.

Last year, federal civil servants contributed $2.1 billion to their pensions, while taxpayers kicked in $9.2 billion, a cost of about $45 per American.

The debt problem of federal plans is compounded by the most liberal cost-of-living allowances offered any American worker. The allowance matches each yearly rise in the Consumer Price Index and then goes it one better. A so-called "one-per-cent kicker" is added, meaning an extra one per cent adjustment above the inflation rate to compensate for time delays in paying the cost-of-living allowance.

Congressional staffers report strong backing for several pending bills which would eliminate the kicker.

Ed Hustead, chief actuary of the Civil Service Retirement Plan, estimates the cost of living allowance has added $31.4 billion to the fund's over-all debts since it began in December 1965. Of that total, $22.1 billion has been accumulated since 1973 when inflation was approaching its peak. And the one-per-cent kicker alone has increased the system's debts by $4.9 billion since it was begun in November 1969, Hustead says.

Federal officials say the military retirement system is the most generous and most debt-plagued. The system is entirely pay-as-you-go, meaning the plan collects from taxpayers only what it needs to get by each year. No fund is accumulated, no investments are made and hence there is no interest that might ease the tax burden. Pension experts say this type of system runs a high risk of sharply rising costs each year because provisions for future payments to retirees are never set aside.

Military pension costs, borne by every American, have gone from $895 million in 1962 to a forecast $8.4 billion in fiscal 1977. The Defense Department projects that military pensions will cost $11.3 billion in fiscal 1980 and $20.9 billion by 1990 if present trends continue.

Unlike most publicly employed workers, military employes make no contribution to the pension plans. They can retire after 20 years' service at half pay and will draw their checks for an average of 32 years. Unlike most other federal workers, they are entitled to Social Security benefits.

The military plan also provides the full cost-of-living, plus the kicker adjustment, for its retirees. And the average military retiree gets an estimated $2,000 a year in government-subsidized savings through use of base food stores, hospitals and other facilities.

Two other groups receive generous retirement benefits — congressmen and federal judges.

Congressmen are covered by the Civil Service Retirement Plan, but no one is sure how much of the fund's $101 billion unfunded liability is due to congressional pensions. Benefits range from $11,000 to more than $50,000, depending on years of service.

Sens. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., and Hugh Scott, R-Pa., will get annual retirement pay of more than $40,000 when they retire in November. House Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., will get the maximum rate of $65,000.

The maximum pension is 80 per cent of final pay after 32 years' service, but military service up to five years can be included.

Federal judges have what may be the best deal of all. Technically, they are never even considered retirees, but rather after age 65 or 70, depending on their number of years on the bench, attain "senior status," after which they can work or not, at their own choice. Either way, they draw full salary until they die.

Some federal judges, through a complicated quirk in the federal judicial and civil service statutes, also are getting paid an unintended windfall in back civil service benefits for U.S. government jobs they held before joining the bench. The amount of this windfall has been estimated as high as $200,000.

A U.S. Civil Service Commission spokesman said 16 federal judges were entitled to back civil service pensions in addition to judicial benefits. He said many were receiving the double payments.

The majority of the 16 are former U.S. attorneys or congressmen who had accumulated the necessary five years of civil service credit before joining the bench, the spokesman said.

A bill now before Congress would end the dual pensions for anyone joining the bench after the legislation is passed.

Today in U.S. history

By The Associated Press

Today is Thursday, Aug. 12, the 225th day of 1976. There are 141 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1941, President Franklin Roosevelt and British Prime Minister Winston Churchill met at sea to draft the Atlantic Charter.

On this date:

In 1530, troops of the Holy Roman Empire restored the Italian city of Florence to the Medici family.

In 1851, Isaac Singer of Pittstown, N.Y., was granted a patent on his sewing machine.

In 1898, the peace protocol ending the Spanish-American War was signed after hostilities lasting three months and 22 days.

In 1914, Britain declared war on Austria-Hungary at the start of World War I.

In 1941, French Marshal Henri Petain called on his countrymen to give full support to Nazi Germany.

In 1959, token school integration began in Little Rock, Ark., as six black students enrolled in a formerly all-white high school.

Ten years ago: Three policemen were shot to death on a London street, and Scotland Yard launched a vast manhunt.

Five years ago: Syria broke relations with Jordan after claiming that King Hussein's army attacked inside Syrian territory.

One year ago: The Senate Intelligence Committee subpoenaed former President Richard Nixon's tapes and documents for its investigation of CIA involvement in Chile.

Today's birthdays: Mexican comedian Cantinflas is 65 years old. Actor John Derek is 50.

Thought for today: The older you get the more you realize that kindness is synonymous with happiness — actor Lionel Barrymore, 1878-1954.

Deaths

Alfred J. Pinnell

SAN FRANCISCO — Alfred Jackson Pinnell, 50, a former resident of Morehouse and New Madrid, Mo., died Wednesday.

Born Aug. 23, 1925 in New Madrid, he was a son of the late Lloyd Brooks and Lelia Tickell Pinnell.

He is survived by his widow, Rosemary Allen Pinnell of St. Louis; three daughters, Betty Jane Pinnell of Sikeston, Mo., and Penny and Maureen Pinnell of St. Louis; three sons, Jack, George and Patrick Pinnell of St. Louis; and one brother, Bill Pinnell of Sikeston.

The body will be moved to Richards Funeral Home in New Madrid, where funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Floyd E. McLain

EAST PRAIRIE — Services for Floyd Edward McLain, 70, of St. Louis, a former East Prairie resident who died Tuesday, were conducted at 2 p.m. today in Shelby Funeral Home by the Rev. Harrison Brack, pastor of St. James Village Baptist Church.

Burial followed in East Prairie Memorial Park Cemetery.

Public safety is discussed at Lions Club

The newly formed Department of Public Safety will mean a more efficient use of police and fire personnel, Public Safety Director Kenneth Francis told the Sikeston Lions Club Wednesday.

He said that, in the past, police and fire departments kept their own different records, used different personnel and communication systems to do the same jobs. Under the public safety concept, those functions are merged to do a more efficient job.

The money savings will come in the future as the city grows, he said. The merged police and fire personnel will be able to handle the growth instead of having the city hire many more people, he explained.

Francis said the public safety emergency telephone number, 471-4711, may be put on department vehicles in the future because many people are having a hard time remembering it.

Public safety officers will be able to combine fire inspections with security inspections, he said.

Volunteer police and firemen will continue to be an important part of the force, Francis said. The volunteers will be provided extra training if they want it, he said.

The extra training eventually will give all public safety officers expertise in both police and fire skills.

But Francis said the change over will be gradual because there are some people on the force who cannot or do not want to learn the extra skills.

The prayer

"Who set its corner-stone in place, when the morning stars sang together and all the sons of God shouted aloud?" (Job 38:6-7, NEB)

PRAYER: Eternal God, who makest all things new, we begin the day not knowing what it may bring, but knowing the possibilities of good when Thy will is done in the hours that lie ahead. Amen.

Wedding March

Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" was played at a wedding for the first time at the marriage ceremony of Queen Victoria's daughter, the Princess Royal, to the Crown Prince of Prussia on Jan. 26, 1858. The march was composed for Mendelssohn's "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

Ashcroft said.

"It is totally unreasonable to expect that one could, as governor, demand the resignation of public service commissioners who are by law serving fixed terms," he added.

Ashcroft promised to improve the consumer protection activities of the attorney general's office.

He said he would install an incoming toll-free telephone line so individuals could call his office to report consumer problems when they occur.

The ability to telephone the attorney general's office free now exists only in St. Louis, Kansas City and Jefferson City.

He said he would ask schools to teach students ways of confronting consumer fraud. He pointed out that there are over 800 separate consumer fraud schemes, and ways of spotting them must be taught early.

Ashcroft promised vigorous antitrust action whenever needed and indicated that he thinks criticism of the attorney general's office for lack of antitrust action is unfair.

"I am deeply committed to the maintenance of a competitive economy in Missouri, and people who use sharp practices and illegal activities to monopolize the market should be prosecuted vigoriously," he said.

Ashcroft also suggested publishing annually a book of legal opinions handed down through his office. He said the book would be made available to the legal profession, libraries and news media.

He promised to operate a professional office made up of qualified personel, not one with people hired for political favors.

He indicated he could not answer questions concerning his differences with James Baker, the Democratic nominee for attorney general, because he had not heard much about him and did not know what his positions are.

Sales tax eliminations to cost school

SCOTT CITY — A proposal to eliminate sales tax on food and drug items in Missouri would cost Illmo-Scott City R-1 School District between $65,000 and $70,000 in lost revenue, Supt. Jessie Holmes told the Board of Education Monday night.

Holmes said the plan, if passed in the Nov. 2 general election, would mean a $140 million general revenue loss to the state, $65 million of that amount allocated to schools.

"The financial picture in Missouri schools is going to be tight this year," Holmes told board members.

Leola Essner was hired as a cook, replacing Mrs. Albert Sandvoss, who is retiring.

A milk bid from Albrecht Dairy was accepted, as was a bread bid by Colonial Bakery.

Teachers will vote Aug. 23 on insurance proposals offered by the Missouri State Teachers Association, Blue Cross-Blue Shield and Metropolitan.

Convention Roundup

Buckley is reserving third- man option

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Sen. James L. Buckley of New York is reserving the option of a third-man presidential candidacy, leaving Republican National Convention strategists for President Ford and Ronald Reagan to argue over which side would suffer if he ran.

GOP platform draftsmen worked through a sweltering night into early morning hours today, trying to fashion planks that both the Reagan and Ford camps could buy without a fight. Reagan's manager said he wasn't looking for platform trouble, but was ready for contests on the convention floor if necessary.

The close race was reflected in a platform subcommittee vote on the Panama Canal issue. By an 8 to 8 tie vote, a foreign policy panel rejected an attempt by Reagan backers to require that the United States maintain sovereignty over the canal.

Instead, by a 9 to 7 vote today, it adopted language accepted by the Ford administration which said U.S. negotiators should not give up any territory rights needed to protect U.S. security.

The Reagan campaign also readied its forces for a Saturday drive to undo a Ford-backed rule binding delegates from 18 states to vote in accordance with the outcome of presidential primary elections.

And, on a hundred-degree day Wednesday, the Buckley maneuver turned up the political temperature.

A Ford lieutenant tried to talk Buckley into renouncing presidential candidacy. Richard Rosenbaum, the New York GOP chairman, did so with a less-than-subtle suggestion that Buckley might suffer political damage at home, where he is running for re-election to the Senate.

John P. Sears, the Reagan manager, said that the challenger had not tried to encourage or dissaude any potential rival entry into the race for nomination. He disclaimed any involvement in the Buckley move.

Nonetheless, it appeared to mesh with a Reagan convention strategy built around maneuvers designed to keep the Ford organization off balance.

Furthermore, the fact that the move came from the Republican right, from a senator originally elected as a Conservative party candidate, led to speculation that Reagan forces were somehow involved. Buckley said he had been urged to consider candidacy by Republicans aligned with both Reagan and Ford, but he would not identify them.

"I am not a stalking horse," he told a New York news conference. "My only purpose would be to deadlock the convention on the first ballot and thus give all of the delegates a chance to later vote the way they want to.

"I am concerned because many delegates feel they are locked in by the rules and must vote for one candidate even though they prefer the other," Buckley said.

That would fit neatly with the Reagan effort to block the rule binding delegates from the primary states. Sears said the Reagan camp has not encouraged any Republican to vote in defiance of legally binding instructions from his state, or to abstain on a first convention ballot so as to avoid voting for Ford if he personally preferred Reagan.

He said a convention rule binding primary delegates could lead to court challenges after the nomination. Sears said the Reagan camp will press its opposition in the convention rules committee on Saturday and on the floor if necessary.

The Associated Press count of delegate votes put Ford at 1,105, 25 short of a nominating majority; Reagan at 1,032; with 122 uncommitted.

Sears said Reagan will have more than 1,140 votes on the first ballot. Sen. Robert P. Griffin of Michigan, Ford's floor manager said the President now has about 1,135.

That, of course, reckons without Buckley, who indicated he will decide this weekend whether he really will run.

Bernie adopts developmental plan

By FRANK WATSON

BERNIE— Where to now, Bernie? An updated comprehensive plan prepared by the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission and recently adopted by the City Council attempts to answer that question.

Under the plan, goals listed for the city include: orderly growth and development of the city; conserve land; serve the housing needs of the people in the city; promote sound economic development; and improve the health and environmental conditions of Bernie.

When it comes to specifics, the plan lists these objectives: improve offstreet parking, storm damage and street lighting; pave streets, purchase a street sweeping machine and increase water storage; a housing rehabilitation program and new housing construction; development of an industrial park; and improve other city services.

One interesting piece of information the study brings out is family income: Nearly half of the families in the city have an income below $6,000.

Of the 512 families included in the study for 1970--the year cited-- 22 families were earning $15,000 to $24,999 and no family was making more than that.

Families making less than $6,000 totaled 259, and 199 families were making between $6,000 and $12,000.

"After reviewing this figure it becomes apparent that efforts should be taken to increase incomes in Stoddard County," the study suggests, then puts in a plug for itself by saying: "One possible solution would be for Stoddard County to fully support a regional development program which will be offered by the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission.

Even with a majority of families making low salaries, the vast majority of housing in the city has been classified as being in good shape, according to the report, made in 1975 and included with the comprehensive plan.

At that time, 84 of the total 683 houses were classified as "substandard" — 12.3 per cent of the total houses -- down from about 25.8 per cent in 1960.

The homes, however, are not expensive. Of the 433 owner-occupied units, 145 are valued at less than $5,000 and 188 at less than $10,000.

Ony four houses are valued at more than $20,000 and none over $35,000.

Of total occupied units, 02.2 per cent had all plumbing facilities, with 7.8 per cent lacking some or all plumbing facilities.

One-unit structures accounted for 90.7 per cent of Bernie's total housing units in 1970--the year for data included in the plan.

Only 11.2 per cent of Bernie's housing units have fewer than three rooms.

"Bernie's community development program is designed to eliminate and prevent slums, blight and deterioration and to provide improved community development facilitie and public improvements," the plan says.

Part of this plan is the provision of 40 units of low-rent housing, coming from existing housing stock and primarily for non-elderly families, the report says.

The second feature of Bernie's plan is upgrading part of the housing to standard condition; 16 units are planned to be restored in the next three years, with the money coming from the Department of Housing and Urban Development. Of these, nine will be for the elderly or handicapped.

Finally, construction of 26 public housing units for primarily elderly and handicapped families is planned.

"The city of Bernie will attempt to aid all families who require assistance," the plan claims. "There are 82 families requiring assistance, and it is hoped that 82 units of assisted housing will be provided at the end of three years."

The BRPC writers go on to say, however, that "the amount of progress will depend directly on the funds the city will be able to acquire from outside sources during the three-year period."

Other plans by the city include sewer and water system improvements, but here as well the progress will depend on the amount of outside assistance received.

The city is already making plans to apply for a $400,000 grant to work on these projects.

In 1975, Bernie had a population of 1,845, which is estimated to increase to 2,153 by 1995.

The study says that, to provide for proper future development of the city, the Planning and Zoning Commission should: reserve and designate sufficient space for its requirements; contain development rather than permit scattered development along highways and major roads; increase the tax base; and follow the updated comprehensive plan.

Residential growth is expected throughout the city, with 37.7 per cent of the land within the existing city limits available for future development, although some of it will need drainage improvements before development takes place.

The BRPC writers suggest that all schools and parks be located in close relationship with residential areas.

In 1973, the city received a $70,000 grant which was used for park acquisition and development.

The plan says the city has 62 acres which could be utilized as an industrial site, with none being used at present. Electricity, a three-inch gas line, four-inch water line and an eight-inch sewer line exists to serve the area.

The report was prepared by BRPC staff members under the direction of Ronald C. Yersak, planning director.

Aldens resign from post at Kelso-New hamburg

NEW HAMBURG — In a special meeting Wednesday night of the Kelso-New Hamburg C-7 School District, board president Melvin Glueck and the board accepted resignations submitted by Principal Wallis Alden and his wife, Doris.

Alden, who has been principal of the Kelso-New Hamburg C-7 District for the past eight years, explained he had been offered a better position in DeSoto and asked that both he and his wife be released from their contracts.

After consideration the board agreed to accept the resignations.

The board then called several prospective administrators and within one hour interviewed Richard Eggiman of Cape Girardeau.

After the interview the board set a meeting for Monday at which time a decision will be made whether or not to hire Eggiman.

Bond is concentrating on re-election no t VP

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Gov. Christopher S. Bond says he's concentrating on running for re-election and does not plan to campaign for the Republican vice presidential nomination.

Bond was listed as a possible choice by President Ford if he wins the party's presidential nomination next week in Kansas City.

During a news conference here Tuesday afternoon Bond said he agreed to let the White House look into his financial and physical background to determine his fitness as a VP candidate, but he added that he would not actively seek the office.

"I don't think that campaigning for the vice presidency is a good idea," Bond said. So far 10 persons have admitted being asked for personal information by the White House as part of Ford's effort to screen possible running mates.

Bond got his call while vacationing Saturday. He said that he knew of no one who was supporting him for the vice presidency and that the most important thing as far as he was concerned was winning re-election to a second term.

Democrats have nominated Kansas City attorney Joseph Teasdale as their candidate for governor.

Bond said he was getting a lot of "free advice" as to what he should do about the vice presidency or running for re-election. He said he recently attended his 20-year high school class reunion in Mexico, and that the consensus of his classmates was that he not take the vice presidential offer if it's made, and that he should run for re-election.

Deaths

Alfred J. Pinnell

SAN FRANCISCO — Alfred Jackson Pinnell, 50, a former resident of Morehouse and New Madrid, Mo., died Wednesday.

Born Aug. 23, 1925 in New Madrid, he was a son of the late Lloyd Brooks and Lelia Tickell Pinnell.

He is survived by his widow, Rosemary Allen Pinnell of St. Louis; three daughters, Betty Jane Pinnell of Sikeston, Mo., and Penny and Maureen Pinnell of St. Louis; three sons, Jack, George and Patrick Pinnell of St. Louis; and one brother, Bill Pinnell of Sikeston.

The body will be moved to Richards Funeral Home in New Madrid, where funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Floyd E. McLain

EAST PRAIRIE — Services for Floyd Edward McLain, 70, of St. Louis, a former East Prairie resident who died Tuesday, were conducted at 2 p.m. today in Shelby Funeral Home by the Rev. Harrison Brack, pastor of St. James Village Baptist Church.

Burial followed in East Prairie Memorial Park Cemetery.

Public safety is discussed at Lions Club

The newly formed Department of Public Safety will mean a more efficient use of police and fire personnel, Public Safety Director Kenneth Francis told the Sikeston Lions Club Wednesday.

He said that, in the past, police and fire departments kept their own different records, used different personnel and communication systems to do the same jobs. Under the public safety concept, those functions are merged to do a more efficient job.

The money savings will come in the future as the city grows, he said. The merged police and fire personnel will be able to handle the growth instead of having the city hire many more people, he explained.

Francis said the public safety emergency telephone number, 471-4711, may be put on department vehicles in the future because many people are having a hard time remembering it.

Public safety officers will be able to combine fire inspections with security inspections, he said.

Volunteer police and firemen will continue to be an important part of the force, Francis said. The volunteers will be provided extra training if they want it, he said.

The extra training eventually will give all public safety officers expertise in both police and fire skills.

But Francis said the change over will be gradual because there are some people on the force who cannot or do not want to learn the extra skills.

The prayer

"Who set its corner-stone in place, when the morning stars sang together and all the sons of God shouted aloud?" (Job 38:6-7, NEB)

PRAYER: Eternal God, who makest all things new, we begin the day not knowing what it may bring, but knowing the possibilities of good when Thy will is done in the hours that lie ahead. Amen.

Wedding March

Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" was played at a wedding for the first time at the marriage ceremony of Queen Victoria's daughter, the Princess Royal, to the Crown Prince of Prussia on Jan. 26, 1858. The march was composed for Mendelssohn's "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

Ashcroft said.

"It is totally unreasonable to expect that one could, as governor, demand the resignation of public service commissioners who are by law serving fixed terms," he added.

Ashcroft promised to improve the consumer protection activities of the attorney general's office.

He said he would install an incoming toll-free telephone line so individuals could call his office to report consumer problems when they occur.

The ability to telephone the attorney general's office free now exists only in St. Louis, Kansas City and Jefferson City.

He said he would ask schools to teach students ways of confronting consumer fraud. He pointed out that there are over 800 separate consumer fraud schemes, and ways of spotting them must be taught early.

Ashcroft promised vigorous antitrust action whenever needed and indicated that he thinks criticism of the attorney general's office for lack of antitrust action is unfair.

"I am deeply committed to the maintenance of a competitive economy in Missouri, and people who use sharp practices and illegal activities to monopolize the market should be prosecuted vigoriously," he said.

Ashcroft also suggested publishing annually a book of legal opinions handed down through his office. He said the book would be made available to the legal profession, libraries and news media.

He promised to operate a professional office made up of qualified personel, not one with people hired for political favors.

He indicated he could not answer questions concerning his differences with James Baker, the Democratic nominee for attorney general, because he had not heard much about him and did not know what his positions are.

Sales tax eliminations to cost school

SCOTT CITY — A proposal to eliminate sales tax on food and drug items in Missouri would cost Illmo-Scott City R-1 School District between $65,000 and $70,000 in lost revenue, Supt. Jessie Holmes told the Board of Education Monday night.

Holmes said the plan, if passed in the Nov. 2 general election, would mean a $140 million general revenue loss to the state, $65 million of that amount allocated to schools.

"The financial picture in Missouri schools is going to be tight this year," Holmes told board members.

Leola Essner was hired as a cook, replacing Mrs. Albert Sandvoss, who is retiring.

A milk bid from Albrecht Dairy was accepted, as was a bread bid by Colonial Bakery.

Teachers will vote Aug. 23 on insurance proposals offered by the Missouri State Teachers Association, Blue Cross-Blue Shield and Metropolitan.

Convention Roundup

Buckley is reserving third- man option

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Sen. James L. Buckley of New York is reserving the option of a third-man presidential candidacy, leaving Republican National Convention strategists for President Ford and Ronald Reagan to argue over which side would suffer if he ran.

GOP platform draftsmen worked through a sweltering night into early morning hours today, trying to fashion planks that both the Reagan and Ford camps could buy without a fight. Reagan's manager said he wasn't looking for platform trouble, but was ready for contests on the convention floor if necessary.

The close race was reflected in a platform subcommittee vote on the Panama Canal issue. By an 8 to 8 tie vote, a foreign policy panel rejected an attempt by Reagan backers to require that the United States maintain sovereignty over the canal.

Instead, by a 9 to 7 vote today, it adopted language accepted by the Ford administration which said U.S. negotiators should not give up any territory rights needed to protect U.S. security.

The Reagan campaign also readied its forces for a Saturday drive to undo a Ford-backed rule binding delegates from 18 states to vote in accordance with the outcome of presidential primary elections.

And, on a hundred-degree day Wednesday, the Buckley maneuver turned up the political temperature.

A Ford lieutenant tried to talk Buckley into renouncing presidential candidacy. Richard Rosenbaum, the New York GOP chairman, did so with a less-than-subtle suggestion that Buckley might suffer political damage at home, where he is running for re-election to the Senate.

John P. Sears, the Reagan manager, said that the challenger had not tried to encourage or dissaude any potential rival entry into the race for nomination. He disclaimed any involvement in the Buckley move.

Nonetheless, it appeared to mesh with a Reagan convention strategy built around maneuvers designed to keep the Ford organization off balance.

Furthermore, the fact that the move came from the Republican right, from a senator originally elected as a Conservative party candidate, led to speculation that Reagan forces were somehow involved. Buckley said he had been urged to consider candidacy by Republicans aligned with both Reagan and Ford, but he would not identify them.

"I am not a stalking horse," he told a New York news conference. "My only purpose would be to deadlock the convention on the first ballot and thus give all of the delegates a chance to later vote the way they want to.

"I am concerned because many delegates feel they are locked in by the rules and must vote for one candidate even though they prefer the other," Buckley said.

That would fit neatly with the Reagan effort to block the rule binding delegates from the primary states. Sears said the Reagan camp has not encouraged any Republican to vote in defiance of legally binding instructions from his state, or to abstain on a first convention ballot so as to avoid voting for Ford if he personally preferred Reagan.

He said a convention rule binding primary delegates could lead to court challenges after the nomination. Sears said the Reagan camp will press its opposition in the convention rules committee on Saturday and on the floor if necessary.

The Associated Press count of delegate votes put Ford at 1,105, 25 short of a nominating majority; Reagan at 1,032; with 122 uncommitted.

Sears said Reagan will have more than 1,140 votes on the first ballot. Sen. Robert P. Griffin of Michigan, Ford's floor manager said the President now has about 1,135.

That, of course, reckons without Buckley, who indicated he will decide this weekend whether he really will run.

Bernie adopts developmental plan

By FRANK WATSON

BERNIE— Where to now, Bernie? An updated comprehensive plan prepared by the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission and recently adopted by the City Council attempts to answer that question.

Under the plan, goals listed for the city include: orderly growth and development of the city; conserve land; serve the housing needs of the people in the city; promote sound economic development; and improve the health and environmental conditions of Bernie.

When it comes to specifics, the plan lists these objectives: improve offstreet parking, storm damage and street lighting; pave streets, purchase a street sweeping machine and increase water storage; a housing rehabilitation program and new housing construction; development of an industrial park; and improve other city services.

One interesting piece of information the study brings out is family income: Nearly half of the families in the city have an income below $6,000.

Of the 512 families included in the study for 1970--the year cited-- 22 families were earning $15,000 to $24,999 and no family was making more than that.

Families making less than $6,000 totaled 259, and 199 families were making between $6,000 and $12,000.

"After reviewing this figure it becomes apparent that efforts should be taken to increase incomes in Stoddard County," the study suggests, then puts in a plug for itself by saying: "One possible solution would be for Stoddard County to fully support a regional development program which will be offered by the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission.

Even with a majority of families making low salaries, the vast majority of housing in the city has been classified as being in good shape, according to the report, made in 1975 and included with the comprehensive plan.

At that time, 84 of the total 683 houses were classified as "substandard" --- 12.3 per cent of the total houses -- down from about 25.8 per cent in 1960.

The homes, however, are not expensive. Of the 433 owner-occupied units, 145 are valued at less than $5,000 and 188 at less than $10,000.

Ony four houses are valued at more than $20,000 and none over $35,000.

Of total occupied units, 02.2 per cent had all plumbing facilities, with 7.8 per cent lacking some or all plumbing facilities.

One-unit structures accounted for 90.7 per cent of Bernie's total housing units in 1970--the year for data included in the plan.

Only 11.2 per cent of Bernie's housing units have fewer than three rooms.

"Bernie's community development program is designed to eliminate and prevent slums, blight and deterioration and to provide improved community development facilitie and public improvements," the plan says.

Part of this plan is the provision of 40 units of low-rent housing, coming from existing housing stock and primarily for non-elderly families, the report says.

The second feature of Bernie's plan is upgrading part of the housing to standard condition; 16 units are planned to be restored in the next three years, with the money coming from the Department of Housing and Urban Development. Of these, nine will be for the elderly or handicapped.

Finally, construction of 26 public housing units for primarily elderly and handicapped families is planned.

"The city of Bernie will attempt to aid all families who require assistance," the plan claims. "There are 82 families requiring assistance, and it is hoped that 82 units of assisted housing will be provided at the end of three years."

The BRPC writers go on to say, however, that "the amount of progress will depend directly on the funds the city will be able to acquire from outside sources during the three-year period."

Other plans by the city include sewer and water system improvements, but here as well the progress will depend on the amount of outside assistance received.

The city is already making plans to apply for a $400,000 grant to work on these projects.

In 1975, Bernie had a population of 1,845, which is estimated to increase to 2,153 by 1995.

The study says that, to provide for proper future development of the city, the Planning and Zoning Commission should: reserve and designate sufficient space for its requirements; contain development rather than permit scattered development along highways and major roads; increase the tax base; and follow the updated comprehensive plan.

Residential growth is expected throughout the city, with 37.7 per cent of the land within the existing city limits available for future development, although some of it will need drainage improvements before development takes place.

The BRPC writers suggest that all schools and parks be located in close relationship with residential areas.

In 1973, the city received a $70,000 grant which was used for park acquisition and development.

The plan says the city has 62 acres which could be utilized as an industrial site, with none being used at present. Electricity, a three-inch gas line, four-inch water line and an eight-inch sewer line exists to serve the area.

The report was prepared by BRPC staff members under the direction of Ronald C. Yersak, planning director.

U.S. Open faces delemna over transsexual

NEW YORK (AP) — The U.S. Open tournament committee volleyed the volatile problem, using a hot potato instead of a ball. A spokesman for the women players tried to quiet the tennis racket by discussing genetics. And as the sun set over the puzzled sport Wednesday, it seemed no progress had been made on the matter of a male transsexual trying to play professionally with — or against — female tennis players.

The tournament committee adjourned Wednesday without deciding to accept the application of Dr. Renee Richards — who as a male was known as Dr. Richard Raskind — for the women's competition at Forest Hills next month. All it would say through a spokesman is that "all entrants will be advised by Aug. 20 as to whether or not they've been accepted to compete in the tournament."

Dr. Richards already has been accepted to compete — as a woman — in the South Orange, N.J., Tennis Week Open which starts Aug. 21. That tournament's director, Gene Scott, said that he has received "a gynecological affirmation that she is a woman."

That affirmation was not sufficient for the Women's Tennis Association. WTA Executive Director Jerry Diamond said Wednesday that "women's tennis is for women. If she can pass the IOC (International Olympic Committee) test that she is genetically a woman, then she can play women's tennis."

It appeared, however, that the 6-foot-2 Dr. Richards would not pass such a test. "The physicians we've talked to say that a man has greater strength than a woman," explained Diamond. "If you have a 6-foot genetic man and a 6-foot genetic woman, the man is stronger than the woman. What they do to themselves is irrelevant."

Crenshaw shuns role of favorite as PGA tourney opens today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leading money winner Ben Crenshaw refuses to take seriously the prediction of many observers that he is the man to beat in the 58th PGA Golf Championship, starting today.

"If I won, I would feel like I stole it," the young Texan said bluntly.

As he prepared to tee off against 139 professional rivals, the 24-year-old tour fledgling found himself confronted with all sorts of pressures — topping the year's money list with $213,201, hailed as the future super star and headlined in Washington papers as the pre-tournament favorite.

"A lot of people are getting itchy for me to go out and win a major tournament," he said. "The way I'm hitting the ball and the way the other guys are hitting the ball, I don't deserve it.

"It's as simple as that. I am not hitting enough fairways. I am not hitting enough greens. When I go out to play, I figure I've got to bale a lot of hay."

Crenshaw played his final practice round with two other of the most formidable young lions — Jerry Pate and George Burns III — and the recognized king of the game, Jack Nicklaus, winner of 16 major crowns.

Out of the tough Texas proving ground that produced such fairway greats as Ben Hogan, Byron Nelson, Jimmy Demaret and Lee Trevino and cut from the same bolt of cloth, Crenshaw has measured up to all expectations except one — he has not yet won a major championship.

Slider helps Dierker, Astros stop Cardinals

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Righthander Larry Dierker has been around long enough to recognize a good pitch when he sees it.

Wednesday night the blond Houston Astros veteran located the delivery he desired early against the St. Louis Cardinals and sailed to an 8-1 triumph.

"I'd been having real good luck the last couple of times I won with my sinker," said Dierker, 12-10, who scattered nine Cards hits and finished with six strikeouts.

"This time it was my slider that was better than the fast ball," he added. "I think I threw more sliders tonight than I ever have."

A 14-hit attack featuring Wilbur Howard's RBI triple and Ken Boswell's two-run double helped Dierker almost as much as his most effective pitch.

Howard slashed a triple to right field during a three-run Astros third inning that opened a 4-0 lead against St. Louis right-hander John Denny, 6-6.

Then, after the Cards were repelled in their most serious bid, Boswell capped a four-run seventh with his double off Al Hrabosky.

"If I'd had an overpowering fast ball I might have tended to get careless," observed Dierker, who came within one pitch of posting his 26th career shutout.

"The key to the whole night was the slider," he acknowledged. "It was working well, so I stuck with it."

After Houston exploded for its first big inning, Dierker worked past two St. Louis singles in the bottom of the third and breezed through five innings with a four-hitter.

Lou Brock and Ted Simmons singled with one out in the sixth and Joe Ferguson spoiled the shutout bid with a ground rule double off a pitch intended to be inside.

Dierker's performance, consisting of 123 pitches, required 2 hours and 40 minutes to complete and left the Cards in a dazed state.

"He was fast compared to what he ordinarily is," St. Louis Manager Red Schoendienst said of Dierker's slow style, however. "The worst part of it is that when he beats you he puts you in a slump."

A spokesman for the women players tried to quiet the tennis racket by discussing genetics. And as the sun set over the puzzled sport Wednesday, it seemed no progress had been made on the matter of a male transsexual trying to play professionally with — or against — female tennis players.

The tournament committee adjourned Wednesday without deciding to accept the application of Dr. Renee Richards — who as a male was known as Dr. Richard Raskind — for the women's competition at Forest Hills next month. All it would say through a spokesman is that "all entrants will be advised by Aug. 20 as to whether or not they've been accepted to compete in the tournament."

Dr. Richards already has been accepted to compete — as a woman — in the South Orange, N.J., Tennis Week Open which starts Aug. 21. That tournament's director, Gene Scott, said that he has received "a gynecological affirmation that she is a woman."

That affirmation was not sufficient for the Women's Tennis Association. WTA Executive Director Jerry Diamond said Wednesday that "women's tennis is for women. If she can pass the IOC (International Olympic Committee) test that she is genetically a woman, then she can play women's tennis."

It appeared, however, that the 6-foot-2 Dr. Richards would not pass such a test. "The physicians we've talked to say that a man has greater strength than a woman," explained Diamond. "If you have a 6-foot genetic man and a 6-foot genetic woman, the man is stronger than the woman. What they do to themselves is irrelevant."

Crenshaw shuns role of favorite as PGA tourney opens today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leading money winner Ben Crenshaw refuses to take seriously the prediction of many observers that he is the man to beat in the 58th PGA Golf Championship, starting today.

"If I won, I would feel like I stole it," the young Texan said bluntly.

As he prepared to tee off against 139 professional rivals, the 24-year-old tour fledgling found himself confronted with all sorts of pressures — topping the year's money list with $213,201, hailed as the future super star and headlined in Washington papers as the pre-tournament favorite.

"A lot of people are getting itchy for me to go out and win a major tournament," he said. "The way I'm hitting the ball and the way the other guys are hitting the ball, I don't deserve it.

"It's as simple as that. I am not hitting enough fairways. I am not hitting enough greens. When I go out to play, I figure I've got to bale a lot of hay."

Crenshaw played his final practice round with two other of the most formidable young lions — Jerry Pate and George Burns III — and the recognized king of the game, Jack Nicklaus, winner of 16 major crowns.

Out of the tough Texas proving ground that produced such fairway greats as Ben Hogan, Byron Nelson, Jimmy Demaret and Lee Trevino and cut from the same bolt of cloth, Crenshaw has measured up to all expectations except one — he has not yet won a major championship.

Slider helps Dierker, Astros stop Cardinals

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Righthander Larry Dierker has been around long enough to recognize a good pitch when he sees it.

Wednesday night the blond Houston Astros veteran located the delivery he desired early against the St. Louis Cardinals and sailed to an 8-1 triumph.

"I'd been having real good luck the last couple of times I won with my sinker," said Dierker, 12-10, who scattered nine Cards hits and finished with six strikeouts.

"This time it was my slider that was better than the fast ball," he added. "I think I threw more sliders tonight than I ever have."

A 14-hit attack featuring Wilbur Howard's RBI triple and Ken Boswell's two-run double helped Dierker almost as much as his most effective pitch.

Howard slashed a triple to right field during a three-run Astros third inning that opened a 4-0 lead against St. Louis right-hander John Denny, 6-6.

Then, after the Cards were repelled in their most serious bid, Boswell capped a four-run seventh with his double off Al Hrabosky.

"If I'd had an overpowering fast ball I might have tended to get careless," observed Dierker, who came within one pitch of posting his 26th career shutout.

"The key to the whole night was the slider," he acknowledged. "It was working well, so I stuck with it."

After Houston exploded for its first big inning, Dierker worked past two St. Louis singles in the bottom of the third and breezed through five innings with a four-hitter.

Lou Brock and Ted Simmons singled with one out in the sixth and Joe Ferguson spoiled the shutout bid with a ground rule double off a pitch intended to be inside.

Dierker's performance, consisting of 123 pitches, required 2 hours and 40 minutes to complete and left the Cards in a dazed state.

"He was fast compared to what he ordinarily is," St. Louis Manager Red Schoendienst said of Dierker's slow style, however. "The worst part of it is that when he beats you he puts you in a slump."

Hunting season open at Land Between Lakes

GOLDEN POND, Ky. — Land Between The Lakes, TVA's public outdoor area in western Kentucky and Tennessee, will officially open its 1976-77 hunting seasons Saturday, August 21, with the first half of the split squirrel season. The squirrel season closes October 3 and reopens December 1 through December 31.

Officials at the 170,000-acre public demonstration area nestled between Kentucky Lake and Lake Barkley indicate a "good carryover" from last fall's squirrel population and good reproduction this spring and summer.

Daily limits in both Kentucky, and Tennessee sectors of Land Between The Lakes are 6 and possession limits in both states are 12.

Smalll game hunters must acquire a Land Between The Lakes small game permit, available free of charge at any one of the three information stations in Land Between The Lakes or at Center Station in the Environmental Education Center, located in the northern sector of the area. Hunters must have a valid state hunting license when applying for their small game permit.

Other small game seasons set for Land Between The Lakes include Quail, December 1 - February 28; Rabbit, December 1 - January 31; Raccoon and Opossum, December 3, 4, 7, 10, 11, 14, 17, 18, 21, 24, 25, 28, and 31, 1976, and January 1, 4, 7, 8, 11, 14, 15, 18, 21, 22, 25, 28, and 29, 1977; and Foxes (chasing, sunset to sunrise), October 2 and 3 and december 4 and 5. The season for taking Gray Foxes is December 1-February 28.

Hunters interested in the fall quota gun hunts for deer can still obtain applications. The deer hunt will be held in Kentucky November 17, 20, 22, and 29, and in Tennessee November 15, 18, 23, and 27, with a special youth. hunt in both States November 13. Completed applications must be at the Land Between The Lakes Office by noon, September 1. A computer drawing will select hunters and assign areas and dates. Successful as well as unsuccessful hunters will be notified by mail.

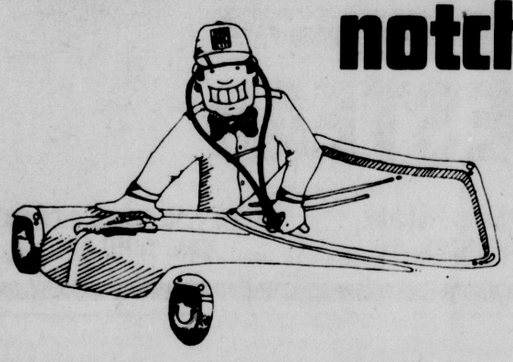

Only youths who will be at least 10 years of age, but who have not reached 16 years of age on the day of the hunt, will be allowed to apply for the special youth hunts November 13. Youths who apply for the special youth hunt cannot apply for the regular quota hunt.

Each youth must have all state required licenses and tags, computer card permit, and a hunter safety certificate from a state sponsored or approved course; there must be presented when checking in for the hunt. Each youth must be accompanied by an adult who is at least 18 years of age while hunting. The accompanying adult will not be allowed to apply for or hunt during the youth hunt. Each adult accompanying a youth in the Kentucky hunt is required by state law to have a valid Kentucky hunting license and state deer permit. The adult will be allowed to apply for the regular quota hunt.

The first half of the bow hunting season for deer will open Saturday, October 9, and continue through Wednesday, November 10. The second portion will open Saturday, December 18, and close Friday, December 31.

To obtain deer hunting applications or additional information on hunting opportunities at Land Between The Lakes, write TVA, Land Between The Lakes, Golden Pond, KY 42231.

Saints host Anna tonight at VFW

The Sikeston Saints will try to wrap up their preliminary round playoff competition against Anna when they host the Illinois team at 8 p.m. tonight. The charging Saints will of course be fighting competition from the rodeo, but they hope to have a good crowd come out to see them oppose the same team they beat Monday night 4-3.

Righthander Don Miller will take the mound in tonight's game. Miller recently had a successful tryout with the St. Louis Cardinals and will report to the team's spring training camp next spring. Until then, he will try to get as much work as possible and the Saints should benefit. Miller beat Anna earlier this year in another 4-3 game. He has a 4-0 record in league games, with an 0.82 earned run average in 33 innings.

If Sikeston wins tonight's game and if Cape beats Perryville in a similar contest, the two teams will meet in a 2 p.m. Sunday game to start the championship series at Cape. If the Saints lose, they will travel to Anna for a third, and deciding game.

The Saints lineup tonight:
1st Rick Eisenbach, 3B
2nd Grant Dambach, SS
3rd Bill Schatzley, 2B
4th Jim Saulter, 1B
5th Jeff Jackson, LF
6th Kenny Urhahn, RF
7th Mitch Walker, DH
8th Donnie Taylor, CF
9th Charlie Miller, C
Pitcher, Don Miller

Giants top Jets

NEW YORK (AP) — John Mendenhall, the New York Giants' defensive tackle, raced onto the field and jumped high in the air, giving the victory sign over and over, as a salute to George Hunt's third field goal, which had just beaten the New York Jets 16-14 Wednesday night.

Hunt's game winner came from 34 yards out with a mere 16 seconds left on the clock — and it meant nothing in the standings of the National Football League. But to Mendenhall and the Giants, it was bragging rights for the entire season.

"We proved we are better than them," said John. "This team is going to be all right this year and beating the Jets is still a big thing."

"Both teams played well," said Giants Coach Bill Arnsparger. "New York may have two good teams this year."

Hunt, who had missed repeatedly in 1975 on field goal and extra point attempts, redeemed himself, with three for four, hitting on shots from 23, 37 and 34 yards, and missing on a 32-yarder which hit the right upright.

"We timed things tonight. I got my kicks off in 1.3 seconds. When they take as long as 1.4, it means you run a big chance of being blocked. After last year we worked long and hard to tighten up coordination between the line and myself. This is gratifying."

INDIANAPOLIS — No. 1 seed Jimmy Connors moved into the second round of the $157,000 U.S. Open Clay Court Championship when Colin Dibley of Australia withdrew because of leg cramps with Connors leading 6-4, 6-7, 3-0. In women's play, top-seeded Lesley Hunt of Australia eased into the fourth round with a 6-3, 6-0 victory over Barbara Jordan.
GOLF
PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. — Carole Semple of Sewickley, Pa., shot a two-under-par 71 to take a one-stroke lead over Debbie Massey of Bethlehem, Pa., in the Canadian Women's Amateur Golf Championship.

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Mike III, the Bengal tiger mascot of the Louisiana State football team since 1958, is in the animal hospital today.

The problem is simply that, in human terms, Mike III is over 100 years old.

"Each year of a wild animal's life is the equivalent of seven for a human," said Dr. W. Sheldon Bivin, associate director of the LSU School of Veterinary Medicine. "Mike is an old animal, since he will be 19 on Nov. 28."

Mike's problems include a degenerative bone condition in his spine and jaws.

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The University of San Diego will host the 1977 National Collegiate Athletic Association Division II Tennis Championships, the NCAA has announced.

The tournament, set for May 18-22, will be the first national event to be staged at the University of San Diego.

The tourney will have 64 singles matches and 32 doubles, the NCAA said in its announcement Wednesday.

The season for taking Gray Foxes is December 1-February 28.

Hunters interested in the fall quota gun hunts for deer can still obtain applications. The deer hunt will be held in Kentucky November 17, 20, 22, and 29, and in Tennessee November 15, 18, 23, and 27, with a special youth. hunt in both States November 13. Completed applications must be at the Land Between The Lakes Office by noon, September 1. A computer drawing will select hunters and assign areas and dates. Successful as well as unsuccessful hunters will be notified by mail.

Only youths who will be at least 10 years of age, but who have not reached 16 years of age on the day of the hunt, will be allowed to apply for the special youth hunts November 13. Youths who apply for the special youth hunt cannot apply for the regular quota hunt.

Each youth must have all state required licenses and tags, computer card permit, and a hunter safety certificate from a state sponsored or approved course; there must be presented when checking in for the hunt. Each youth must be accompanied by an adult who is at least 18 years of age while hunting. The accompanying adult will not be allowed to apply for or hunt during the youth hunt. Each adult accompanying a youth in the Kentucky hunt is required by state law to have a valid Kentucky hunting license and state deer permit. The adult will be allowed to apply for the regular quota hunt.

The first half of the bow hunting season for deer will open Saturday, October 9, and continue through Wednesday, November 10. The second portion will open Saturday, December 18, and close Friday, December 31.

To obtain deer hunting applications or additional information on hunting opportunities at Land Between The Lakes, write TVA, Land Between The Lakes, Golden Pond, KY 42231.

Saints host Anna tonight at VFW

The Sikeston Saints will try to wrap up their preliminary round playoff competition against Anna when they host the Illinois team at 8 p.m. tonight. The charging Saints will of course be fighting competition from the rodeo, but they hope to have a good crowd come out to see them oppose the same team they beat Monday night 4-3.

Righthander Don Miller will take the mound in tonight's game. Miller recently had a successful tryout with the St. Louis Cardinals and will report to the team's spring training camp next spring. Until then, he will try to get as much work as possible and the Saints should benefit. Miller beat Anna earlier this year in another 4-3 game. He has a 4-0 record in league games, with an 0.82 earned run average in 33 innings.

If Sikeston wins tonight's game and if Cape beats Perryville in a similar contest, the two teams will meet in a 2 p.m. Sunday game to start the championship series at Cape. If the Saints lose, they will travel to Anna for a third, and deciding game.

The Saints lineup tonight:
1st Rick Eisenbach, 3B
2nd Grant Dambach, SS
3rd Bill Schatzley, 2B
4th Jim Saulter, 1B
5th Jeff Jackson, LF
6th Kenny Urhahn, RF
7th Mitch Walker, DH
8th Donnie Taylor, CF
9th Charlie Miller, C
Pitcher, Don Miller

Giants top Jets

NEW YORK (AP) — John Mendenhall, the New York Giants' defensive tackle, raced onto the field and jumped high in the air, giving the victory sign over and over, as a salute to George Hunt's third field goal, which had just beaten the New York Jets 16-14 Wednesday night.

Hunt's game winner came from 34 yards out with a mere 16 seconds left on the clock — and it meant nothing in the standings of the National Football League. But to Mendenhall and the Giants, it was bragging rights for the entire season.

"We proved we are better than them," said John. "This team is going to be all right this year and beating the Jets is still a big thing."

"Both teams played well," said Giants Coach Bill Arnsparger. "New York may have two good teams this year."

Hunt, who had missed repeatedly in 1975 on field goal and extra point attempts, redeemed himself, with three for four, hitting on shots from 23, 37 and 34 yards, and missing on a 32-yarder which hit the right upright.

"We timed things tonight. I got my kicks off in 1.3 seconds. When they take as long as 1.4, it means you run a big chance of being blocked. After last year we worked long and hard to tighten up coordination between the line and myself. This is gratifying."

Wednesday's Sports In Brief
By The Associated Press
TENNIS
INDIANAPOLIS — No. 1 seed Jimmy Connors moved into the second round of the $157,000 U.S. Open Clay Court Championship when Colin Dibley of Australia withdrew because of leg cramps with Connors leading 6-4, 6-7, 3-0. In women's play, top-seeded Lesley Hunt of Australia eased into the fourth round with a 6-3, 6-0 victory over Barbara Jordan.
GOLF
PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. — Carole Semple of Sewickley, Pa., shot a two-under-par 71 to take a one-stroke lead over Debbie Massey of Bethlehem, Pa., in the Canadian Women's Amateur Golf Championship.

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Mike III, the Bengal tiger mascot of the Louisiana State football team since 1958, is in the animal hospital today.

The problem is simply that, in human terms, Mike III is over 100 years old.

"Each year of a wild animal's life is the equivalent of seven for a human," said Dr. W. Sheldon Bivin, associate director of the LSU School of Veterinary Medicine. "Mike is an old animal, since he will be 19 on Nov. 28."

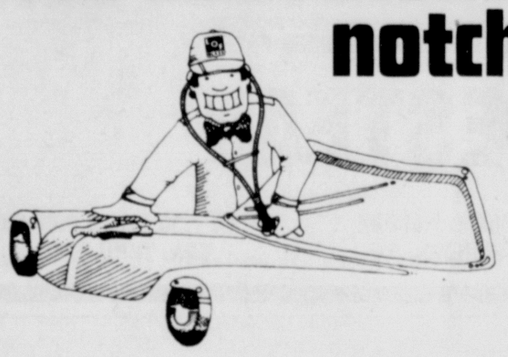

Mike's problems include a degenerative bone condition in his spine and jaws.

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The University of San Diego will host the 1977 National Collegiate Athletic Association Division II Tennis Championships, the NCAA has announced.

The tournament, set for May 18-22, will be the first national event to be staged at the University of San Diego.

The tourney will have 64 singles matches and 32 doubles, the NCAA said in its announcement Wednesday.

Rodeo could be key in PRCA race

The Sikeston Jaycee Bootheel Rodeo, annually one of the most popular and most important on the professional rodeo tour, promises to be so again this year.

The Sikeston rodeo gets underway tonight, with performances also scheduled for Friday evening, Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon.

The latest standings released by the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association show close races in the earnings column in four of the ten categories.

Tom Ferguson of Miami, Oklahoma is the leader in three of the ten categories. Ferguson has eanred $24,665 in the calf roping event this season, putting him ahead of Roy Cooper of Monument, New Mexico, who has won $20,909. Ferguson has also taken in $32,821 in the steer wrestling competitions, where he and Bob Marshall of Chowchilla, Californnia are running a two-way race for the title. Marshall has won $29,826 steer wrestling.

Ferguson also leads in the overall All-Round Champion standings, with total winnings of $60,632. Second-place Joe Alexander of Cora, Wyoming is way back with $32,211.

The other event where there is not much of a race is in the bareback bronc riding competition, where Alexander has won $32,170. Second-race T. J. Walter of Eastland, Texas is nearly ten grand behind at $22,582.

Monty Henson of Mesquite, Texas has things under control for the moment in the bareback bronc riding competition, having earned $22,251. Bobby Berger of Norman, Oklahoma has won $17,815 and is still in the picture.

Don Gay of Mesquite, Texas has won $22,198 to hold the top spot in the bull riding event. Denny Flynn of Charleston, Arkansas has taken in $19,451 and has a firm hold on second place.

Leo Camarillo of Oakdale, California holds a narrow lead over brother Reg in the team roping competition. Leo has won $23,287 in the event, while Reg has picked up $20,859. Ironically, another Camarillo, Jerold, is fourth in the standings.

Bill Spratt of Lysite, Wyoming has taken $8,813 to hold a lead of almost $2,000 in the steer roping competition. Marvin Cantrell of Nara Vista, New Mexico is in second place at $6,817.

Connie Combs of Comanche, Oklahoma is the leader in the barrel racing in the Girls Rodeo Association. Jimmie Gibbs of Valley Mills, Texas has won $14,057.

Rodeo could be key in PRCA race

The Sikeston Jaycee Bootheel Rodeo, annually one of the most popular and most important on the professional rodeo tour, promises to be so again this year.

The Sikeston rodeo gets underway tonight, with performances also scheduled for Friday evening, Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon.

The latest standings released by the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association show close races in the earnings column in four of the ten categories.

Tom Ferguson of Miami, Oklahoma is the leader in three of the ten categories. Ferguson has eanred $24,665 in the calf roping event this season, putting him ahead of Roy Cooper of Monument, New Mexico, who has won $20,909. Ferguson has also taken in $32,821 in the steer wrestling competitions, where he and Bob Marshall of Chowchilla, California are running a two-way race for the title. Marshall has won $29,826 steer wrestling.

Ferguson also leads in the overall All-Round Champion standings, with total winnings of $60,632. Second-place Joe Alexander of Cora, Wyoming is way back with $32,211.

The other event where there is not much of a race is in the bareback bronc riding competition, where Alexander has won $32,170. Second-race T. J. Walter of Eastland, Texas is nearly ten grand behind at $22,582.

Monty Henson of Mesquite, Texas has things under control for the moment in the bareback bronc riding competition, having earned $22,251. Bobby Berger of Norman, Oklahoma has won $17,815 and is still in the picture.

Don Gay of Mesquite, Texas has won $22,198 to hold the top spot in the bull riding event. Denny Flynn of Charleston, Arkansas has taken in $19,451 and has a firm hold on second place.

Leo Camarillo of Oakdale, California holds a narrow lead over brother Reg in the team roping competition. Leo has won $23,287 in the event, while Reg has picked up $20,859. Ironically, another Camarillo, Jerold, is fourth in the standings.

Bill Spratt of Lysite, Wyoming has taken $8,813 to hold a lead of almost $2,000 in the steer roping competition. Marvin Cantrell of Nara Vista, New Mexico is in second place at $6,817.

Connie Combs of Comanche, Oklahoma is the leader in the barrel racing in the Girls Rodeo Association. Jimmie Gibbs of Valley Mills, Texas has won $14,057.

Gowan does it again for Poplar Bluff

The second shutout of the tournament for Gowan of Poplar Bluff, a no-hitter, was the highlight of Wednesday night's action in the Sikeston Invitational Little League Tournament at the complex.

Gowan, who missed a no-hitter and a perfect game by only one batter Monday night in the opening round, tossed a no-hitter against the Sikeston American League All-Stars as Poplar Bluff advanced to the semifinals of the 11-12 year-old division with an 11-0 victory.

Gown struck out eleven batters in four innings this time while overpowering the Sikeston hitters. Only one Sikeston hitter, David Bailey, managed to hit the ball into play, popping up to the catcher in the third. Gowan also walked two and hit another Sikeston hitter. Sikeston never got a runner past first base.

In addition, Gowan powdered a homer and a triple to lead Poplar Bluff's eight-hit attack. They scored two in the first, five in the second and four in the third as they won by the ten-run rule. Bailey took the loss for Sikeston, although Allen also shared the pitching duties.

In the other quarterfinal game, the Sikeston All-Stars got three-hit pitching from Steve Green and Nick Garner as they blanked New Madrid 12-0. Green allowed only two hits in three innings and Garner came on to finish the shutout with a scoreless fourth as Sikeston advanced to the semifinals.

Gary Wolferding blasted a first-inning triple, as did Robert Merrill, as Sikeston jumped ahead 7-0. The All-Stars added five runs in the second Wolferding had two of Sikeston's ten hits, while Terry Sullenger had two of New Madrid's three safeties.

In the 9-10 year-old bracket, both Sikeston teams advanced into tonight's finals.

The All-Stars were outhit 11-9, but took advantage of walks to beat Dexter 12-10. Dexter jumped out ahead 6-1 after two innings, knocking out Sikeston starter Shane Deal. A two-run double by Ken Lathum in the fourth helped the All-Stars narrow the gap to 7-4, but Dexter regained their five run lead with a two-run fourth.

Brad Priday came on to pitch for Sikeston in the fifth and shutout Dexter that inning, allowing his team a chance to get back into the ballgame. After three straight walks in the fifth inning, Doyle Hutton blasted a bases-loaded triple to highlight a four-run inning, which also saw Hutton cross the plate himself. Sikeston scored two more in the fifth as Hutton again singled to score a pair and put Sikeston ahead for the first time, but Dexter scored in the bottom of the sixth to tie it and send the game into extra innings. Tim VanPool's single scored two runs in the top of the seventh to give Sikeston a 12-10 lead, and Priday put the Dexter team down in order in the bottom of the inning to get credit for the victory. Rogers got the loss.

The Sikeston Aces, winners of the Scott City tournament last week, blasted Charleston 13-3 in the second game. Sikeston scored five times in the first to give Chris Stewart all the runs he would need. Stewart scattered six hits in the game as also collected two himself to lead Sikeston in the hit department. Sikeston also scored three in the second, two in the third and three more in the fourth.

For the second week in a row, the All-Stars and Aces will meet each other for the championship of a tournament. They square off at 8:00, following the 6:30 consolation game between Dexter and Charleston.

Meanwhile, quarterfinal action continues in the 11-12 year-old event. The Dexter Americans meet Paducah at 6:30, with the Sikeston Aces following against the Dexter Nationals at 8:00.

76'ers win in tenth; SFSL race still tight

Marty Godwin and Phil Cannon drilled RBI singles in the tenth inning to break a 2-2 tie as the 76'eres downed Security National Bank 4-2 in the only Sikeston Fastpitch Softball League game played Wednesday night at the complex.

Both hits in the tenth came off Jim Hill, who came on to relieve loser Sonny Heacox after the starter allowed two runners to reach.

Tom Stinnett, who went the distance for the 76'ers, also was four-for-four at the plate to cap a sparkling performance. His teammates scored one in the first and one in the second, while Security National came back with a pair in the fourth to tie it.

The league championship could still go to any of four teams as the season winds down to a close. The Eagles take on Marks Food Mart tonight in a crucial game between two of the three teams tied for first place. The Bank of Sikeston is in fourth place, but is only a half game behind the Eagles, Marks and Steward Steel. Here is a look at the contending teams and the remaining games on the schedule:

STEWARD STEEL -- 14-6-- Games left: Eagles, 76'ers, Eby's.

MARKS FOOD MART-- 14-6-- Games left: Eagles, Bank of Sikeston, Eby's Distributing.

EAGLES-- 13-6-- Games left: Marks, Security National, Steward Steel, Bank of Sikeston, Eby's.

BANK OF SIKESTON-- 13-7-- Games left: Eby's, Marks, Security National, Eagles.

Gowan does it again for Poplar Bluff

The second shutout of the tournament for Gowan of Poplar Bluff, a no-hitter, was the highlight of Wednesday night's action in the Sikeston Invitational Little League Tournament at the complex.

Gowan, who missed a no-hitter and a perfect game by only one batter Monday night in the opening round, tossed a no-hitter against the Sikeston American League All-Stars as Poplar Bluff advanced to the semifinals of the 11-12 year-old division with an 11-0 victory.

Gown struck out eleven batters in four innings this time while overpowering the Sikeston hitters. Only one Sikeston hitter, David Bailey, managed to hit the ball into play, popping up to the catcher in the third. Gowan also walked two and hit another Sikeston hitter. Sikeston never got a runner past first base.

In addition, Gowan powdered a homer and a triple to lead Poplar Bluff's eight-hit attack. They scored two in the first, five in the second and four in the third as they won by the ten-run rule. Bailey took the loss for Sikeston, although Allen also shared the pitching duties.

In the other quarterfinal game, the Sikeston All-Stars got three-hit pitching from Steve Green and Nick Garner as they blanked New Madrid 12-0. Green allowed only two hits in three innings and Garner came on to finish the shutout with a scoreless fourth as Sikeston advanced to the semifinals.

Gary Wolferding blasted a first-inning triple, as did Robert Merrill, as Sikeston jumped ahead 7-0. The All-Stars added five runs in the second Wolferding had two of Sikeston's ten hits, while Terry Sullenger had two of New Madrid's three safeties.

In the 9-10 year-old bracket, both Sikeston teams advanced into tonight's finals.

The All-Stars were outhit 11-9, but took advantage of walks to beat Dexter 12-10. Dexter jumped out ahead 6-1 after two innings, knocking out Sikeston starter Shane Deal. A two-run double by Ken Lathum in the fourth helped the All-Stars narrow the gap to 7-4, but Dexter regained their five run lead with a two-run fourth.

Brad Priday came on to pitch for Sikeston in the fifth and shutout Dexter that inning, allowing his team a chance to get back into the ballgame. After three straight walks in the fifth inning, Doyle Hutton blasted a bases-loaded triple to highlight a four-run inning, which also saw Hutton cross the plate himself. Sikeston scored two more in the fifth as Hutton again singled to score a pair and put Sikeston ahead for the first time, but Dexter scored in the bottom of the sixth to tie it and send the game into extra innings. Tim VanPool's single scored two runs in the top of the seventh to give Sikeston a 12-10 lead, and Priday put the Dexter team down in order in the bottom of the inning to get credit for the victory. Rogers got the loss.

The Sikeston Aces, winners of the Scott City tournament last week, blasted Charleston 13-3 in the second game. Sikeston scored five times in the first to give Chris Stewart all the runs he would need. Stewart scattered six hits in the game as also collected two himself to lead Sikeston in the hit department. Sikeston also scored three in the second, two in the third and three more in the fourth.

For the second week in a row, the All-Stars and Aces will meet each other for the championship of a tournament. They square off at 8:00, following the 6:30 consolation game between Dexter and Charleston.

Meanwhile, quarterfinal action continues in the 11-12 year-old event. The Dexter Americans meet Paducah at 6:30, with the Sikeston Aces following against the Dexter Nationals at 8:00.

"HEALTH TIPS"

For "rescue breathing": Clear victim's throat of water, mucus, food. Tilt head back to open the air passage. Hold jaw in jutting-out position. Pinch nostrils to prevent air leakage unless victim is a child. Blow into mouth (and nose, if victim is a small child) until you see the chest lift. Remove your mouth; listen for air return from victim's lungs.
Repeat about 12 times a minute for an adult, about 20 times a minute for a child.

Rudolph's creator is dead at 71

CHICAGO (AP) — Advertising writer Robert L. May, who died Wednesday at 71, became rich by translating the classic Ugly Duckling theme into reindeer terms.

His reindeer was Rudolph, the red-nosed little misfit who was scorned until his very deformity turned him into a hero.

May first wrote the story of Rudolph in 1939 as a Christmas giveaway for his employer, Montgomery Ward and Company. The original version was in prose.

May's tale of Rudolph guiding Santa Claus' sleigh by the light of his nose caught on fast. Ward's gave away 2.4 million copies of the tale during the 1939 Christmas season alone.

By the time he was temporarily retired for World War II, Rudolph was already one of the most successful advertising promotions of all time.

Rudolph came back strongly in 1946, in a new verse version May had written to fit the meter of Clement Clarke Moore's "A Visit from St. Nicholas," the Christmas poem which first made American children reindeer-happy back in 1823. By that point, Rudolph already had become better known than Comet or Cupid or any of the other six originals in Moore's poem. Ward's gave away 3.6 million copies of Rudolph that year.

Ward's turned the copyright on Rudolph over to May in 1947. A publisher turned out 100,000 copies of the poem as a children's book in time for the Christmas season.

The biggest break for May and his red-nosed brainchild came in 1949, when songwriter Johnny Marks set Rudolph's saga to music. Three record companies promptly jumped into the sleigh. Columbia's version alone, recorded by Gene Autry, sold 2 million copies in its first season.

The record sales never stopped. Neither did the Rudolph novelties. Thousands of plastic Rudolphs still adorn lawns, rooftops and Christmas trees every winter.

Bloomfield Jaycee Wives to pick outstanding woman

BLOOMFIELD — The Jaycee Wives are sponsoring a project to select and honor the Outstanding Woman of Bloomfield for 1976. They wish to honor the woman who fulfills her basic role in life, carries out these responsibilities well and also works in her community for the good of others.

Various community organizations are being asked to sponsor a candidate. A woman 18 years or older will be seleted from among the nominees as the Outstanding Woman of 1976 by judges selected from the community. They will judge independently on the merits of each nominee's qualifications.

Each candidate will receive recognition within her own organization or group and will be entertained at a tea in her honor Nov. 28.

For additional information, call Janice Aslin, outstanding woman committee chairman.

What's the law? Case of the hauntedwife

By J. STRAUSS, LL.B.

Ralph was absolutely nuts about Vickie and finally popped the question. Immediately after their honeymoon, however, it suddenly dawned on Ralph that maybe it was his bride who was nuts. While she had lots of spirit, she began hearing and seeing spirits as well.

The payoff came, however, when she began waking Ralph in the middle of the night insisting that people were running around in their basement -- which was sort of peculiar since their home had no basement.

Under the circumstances, Ralph placed his wife in a mental institution. He started an action against her to have their marriage annulled on the grounds that she had not had the mental capacity to enter into it.

"No sooner had we unpacked our honeymoon luggage," he told a judge, "than it became readily apparent that Vickie was as wacky as a jaybird. Obviously, she hadn't had the brains to get married."

"Then you shouldn't have married her in the first place," responded his bride's father. "Since you did, there's no legal reason to grant an annulment."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, WOULD YOU GRANT Ralph an annulment from his haunted wife?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that while a marriage requires the mutual consent of two people of sound mind, there was no proof that Ralph's wife was of unsound mind at the time they were married. As a matter of fact, noted the judge, Ralph first observed his wife's mental illness after they returned from their honeymoon, but not before.

"HEALTH TIPS"

For "rescue breathing": Clear victim's throat of water, mucus, food. Tilt head back to open the air passage. Hold jaw in jutting-out position. Pinch nostrils to prevent air leakage unless victim is a child. Blow into mouth (and nose, if victim is a small child) until you see the chest lift. Remove your mouth; listen for air return from victim's lungs.

Repeat about 12 times a minute for an adult, about 20 times a minute for a child.

MIDTOWNER VILLAGE

Rudolph's creator is dead at 71

CHICAGO (AP) — Advertising writer Robert L. May, who died Wednesday at 71, became rich by translating the classic Ugly Duckling theme into reindeer terms.

His reindeer was Rudolph, the red-nosed little misfit who was scorned until his very deformity turned him into a hero.

May first wrote the story of Rudolph in 1939 as a Christmas giveaway for his employer, Montgomery Ward and Company. The original version was in prose.

May's tale of Rudolph guiding Santa Claus' sleigh by the light of his nose caught on fast. Ward's gave away 2.4 million copies of the tale during the 1939 Christmas season alone.

By the time he was temporarily retired for World War II, Rudolph was already one of the most successful advertising promotions of all time.

Rudolph came back strongly in 1946, in a new verse version May had written to fit the meter of Clement Clarke Moore's "A Visit from St. Nicholas," the Christmas poem which first made American children reindeer-happy back in 1823. By that point, Rudolph already had become better known than Comet or Cupid or any of the other six originals in Moore's poem. Ward's gave away 3.6 million copies of Rudolph that year.

Ward's turned the copyright on Rudolph over to May in 1947. A publisher turned out 100,000 copies of the poem as a children's book in time for the Christmas season.

The biggest break for May and his red-nosed brainchild came in 1949, when songwriter Johnny Marks set Rudolph's saga to music. Three record companies promptly jumped into the sleigh. Columbia's version alone, recorded by Gene Autry, sold 2 million copies in its first season.

The record sales never stopped. Neither did the Rudolph novelties. Thousands of plastic Rudolphs still adorn lawns, rooftops and Christmas trees every winter.

Bloomfield Jaycee Wives to pick outstanding woman

BLOOMFIELD — The Jaycee Wives are sponsoring a project to select and honor the Outstanding Woman of Bloomfield for 1976. They wish to honor the woman who fulfills her basic role in life, carries out these responsibilities well and also works in her community for the good of others.

Various community organizations are being asked to sponsor a candidate. A woman 18 years or older will be seleted from among the nominees as the Outstanding Woman of 1976 by judges selected from the community. They will judge independently on the merits of each nominee's qualifications.

Each candidate will receive recognition within her own organization or group and will be entertained at a tea in her honor Nov. 28.

For additional information, call Janice Aslin, outstanding woman committee chairman.

Energy, colonial style

There were no energy shortages facing Americans two centuries ago when they depended on abundant natural resources and ingenuity as their greatest sources of power.

Before the development of mass production, most metal objects came handforged from the blacksmith, right, who required a large and constant supply of coal since a steady temperature had to be maintained. Tedious labor of candlemaking, far right, may have offered little excitement as a career then, but it was America's only method of lighting homes once night fell. The most intricately-detailed furniture came from the most primitive of tools, the spring lathe, below, and the experienced hands of an artisan. But they were not totally without developing some energy sources, water and wind among them. Windmills often provided the muscle to power mills and huge sawblades. At day's end, the windmill's huge sails were "furled," or secured, below center, to prevent useless wear on its mechanical parts. But more than anything else, the 18th century's primary source of energy, as evident by the dedicated craftsman at work with mallet and chisel, was none other than . . . man.

Energy, colonial style

There were no energy shortages facing Americans two centuries ago when they depended on abundant natural resources and ingenuity as their greatest sources of power.

Before the development of mass production, most metal objects came handforged from the blacksmith, right, who required a large and constant supply of coal since a steady temperature had to be maintained. Tedious labor of candlemaking, far right, may have offered little excitement as a career then, but it was America's only method of lighting homes once night fell. The most intricately-detailed furniture came from the most primitive of tools, the spring lathe, below, and the experienced hands of an artisan. But they were not totally without developing some energy sources, water and wind among them. Windmills often provided the muscle to power mills and huge sawblades. At day's end, the windmill's huge sails were "furled," or secured, below center, to prevent useless wear on its mechanical parts. But more than anything else, the 18th century's primary source of energy, as evident by the dedicated craftsman at work with mallet and chisel, was none other than . . . man.

HAPPY FACE belongs to a dancer in traditional Shinto costume during a festival on Tokyo Bay honoring the Japanese water god.

Independence Hall in Philadelphia was the scene of the proclamation of the Declaration of Independence, July 4, 1776. It was also the meeting place of the Continental Congress and the Constitutional Convention. While the "Miracle of Philadelphia" was taking place in this historic hall, another miracle of sorts was occurring in Colonial newspapers. Want Ads were appearing in those early papers, serving the needs and wants of the citizenry, just as they do today.

Committee head is selected in assessing judges abilities

JEFFERSON CITY — Alex Bartlett, a Jefferson City attorney, has been appointed chairman of a special Missouri Bar committee which will conduct a poll of all Missouri lawyers to learn what they think of the judges who will be standing for re-election under Missouri's non-partisan court plan. The appointment was announced Monday by Thomas D. Cochran of Independence, president of The Missouri Bar.

Bartlett, who was a leader in the citizens group seeking passage of the court reform amendment in the recent primary election, will head the statewide committee to be composer of lawyers representing every judicial circuit in the state.

The poll which this committee will conduct will seek to determine how the lawyers who practice in their courts assess the abilities and judicial deportment of the judges. The results of the poll, which will be conducted by secret ballot, will be made public for the information of voters who will vote 'yes' or 'no' on the question of retention of the judges in the November election.

Cochran said very few citizens actually have the opportunity to assess the abilities of judges at work. For this reason, he said the poll is considered to be important since it will provide the average voter with information as to how the lawyers who practice before them rate the judges.

Only judges of the Supreme Court, the Court of Appeals, the Circuit and Probate Courts of the city of St. Louis and Jackson, Clay, Platte and St. Louis counties and the judges of the Court of Criminal Corrections of the city of St. Louis serve under the non-partisan court plan.

All other judges in Missouri run for re-election on the regular political ballot. Judges under the non-partisan court plan are listed on a separate judicial ballot and stand for retention in office on their record, without political opposition.

There will be 23 judges, serving under the non-partisan court plan whose terms expire this year, in the November election. They are:

Missouri Court of Appeals, Kansas City District—William E. Turnage; Missouri Court of Appeals, St. Louis District—Albert Rendlen and Joseph G. Stewart; Missouri Court of Appeals, Springfield District—George M. Flanigan and Robert E. Hogan.

Sixth Circuit, Platte County—John M. Yeaman; 16th Circuit, Jackson County—Timothy D. O'Leary and Richard P. Sprinkle; 21st Circuit, St. Louis County—Robert L. Campbell, William H. Crandall Jr., Ninian M. Edwards, Robert G.J. Hoester, Arthur Litz and Milton A. Saitz; 22nd Circuit, St. Louis City—Clyde S. Cahill Jr., Thomas W. Challis, James S. Corcoran, Gary M. Gaertner, Michael J. Hart, Thomas F. McGuire and Richard J. Mehan.

St. Louis City Court of Criminal Correction—Richard J. Brown and Murry Lee Randall.

Dear Mr. Blanton:

On behalf of the Sikeston Area Association for retarded citizens and the Regional Clinic we wish to thank you for the picture and article about the new swimming pool at the clinic.

We want to thank a group of hardworking people for making this possible. The Sikeston Area C.B. club, The Keystone Class of the First Christian Church , the Sikeston Jaycees, Mrs. Willard Sanders, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Sanders, Mrs. Lila Harwell, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Marks.

This is certainly a gfift of love for these children because they enjoy it so much. There was a mistake in the article my husband and I are members of the Sikeston area C.B. Club and proud of it.

Thank you again
God Bless
Mrs. Roy Marks

Dear Editor:

In a recent article columnist Jack Anderson spotlighted the National Alliance of Senior Citizens and its work.

While the article was basically fair, it omitted the key ingredient of the differences of philosophy between the Alliance and the Labor dominated National Council of Senior Citizens.

The Alliance rates the Congress on issues of fiscal responsibility in government to protect those living on fixed incomes from the ravages of inflation caused by deficit spending. Mr. Anderson correctly states that the Alliance accepts no government funding.

The Council supports nearly all big spending issues before the Congress, accepting much of its funding from the taxpayers under the programs on which it rates the Congress.

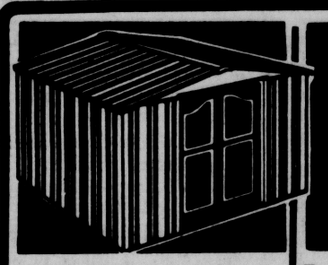

Our organization is new, lives within a small budget from its members and contributors, but we feel strongly that we represent the best intereests of the senior community.

With this in perspective, the difference between the groups becomes evident, and seniors may freely elect to join the organization of their choice.

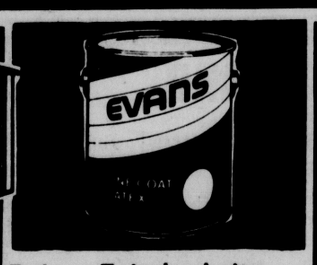

Sincerely,
